War? Heaven Forbid
Attacking Our Dollar

—By Arthur Brisbane—

NO BETTER news from Asia. War begins to look unpleasantly inevitable. China's minister in Tokio has stopped talking to the Japanese foreign minister, the League of Nations is marking time, like the soldier in the pantomime. Old Uncle Sam, as usual, is being pushed to the front. It is actually announced that he will share in the League's deliberations, although the people of this country have voted by gigantic pluralities against any such meddling.

In the end he will be told, "You pull out the chestnuts."

Meanwhile the civilized world deplores the sad possibility of war, while the business world discusses its business possibilities.

Wheat and cotton were strong yesterday. War calls for wheat and cotton. Stocks were weak because of a rumor that Russia would come in. Big business has acquired a strange respect for Russia, mixed with a scorn that is not very real.

It is probably true, as alleged, that Russia and Japan have an understanding about Manchuria, as a fox and a wolf might have an understanding about a fat duck. In the end the wolf may take the whole duck, or perhaps Manchuria will be divided as the "Christian" powers once divided Poland, or as "the walrus and the carpenter" divided the oysters.

Mr. Rogers, who spends much of his time in airplanes, thinking much and writing little, which reverses the usual order, observes that the League of Nations is humble, when Japan seems to want a war. Rogers says of the League, "It was a great thing to make the little fellows behave, but when the big fellows want to get away with anything, it has no more power than a Senate investigating committee."

Paris reports a big gambling ring raising the dollar to ninety cents in value. The big gambling ring is not alone in that process. Europe owes us ten billions, and if they could cut the dollar's value by half they would only have to pay five billions. They won't pay us much, if anything, from now on, probably, but it would make them feel safer and ease their blood, if a lower price for the dollar made republican debts smaller.

That gratification will probably be denied them. By a simple process the United States could draw to its self practically all the gold in the world, even gold that able Frenchmen have accumulated, unless gold exports were forbidden by law.

The National Assembly of Spain has signed Article III of the new constitution, "no official state religion exists."

This ends the age-long connection between church and state in Spain.

In addition, Spain's new government proposes to expel from Spain and seize the property of all religious orders "which take a vow of obedience directly to the Pope."

The Vatican, looking far into the future, and far back into history, has anticipated these steps and, disappointed, but not alarmed, feels that the position of the Catholic Church in Spain will be little impaired.

Those that know the position, influence, and growth of the Catholic Church in America, where church and state have long been separated, believe that the church in the long run will benefit by the separation, although new conditions at first will be difficult for the clergy.

Dr. Crile, distinguished scientist of Cleveland, tells the clinical congress of marvelous operations on the human heart, and of nerve surgery, relieving pain, prolonging life.

Dr. Crile proves that you are indeed "fearfully and wonderfully made." Your "power station" in the adrenal glands, just above your kidneys, sometimes drives the nervous system too hard, causing "soldier's heart," and other ills.

Also the frontal lobe of your forehead, in which your intellect dwells, is the "slave driver" of the mind.

The majority of us have that "slave drive" under sufficient control to let the mind rest part of the time.

Dr. Crile, in 20 different operations, has cut nerves leading from the adrenal glands to the sympathetic nervous system, preventing supply of too much power, and producing important cures. It is as though a tired office boy should cut the wire leading from the bell on his

Pictures and Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton's Own Story on Page 15

But the evangelist, at a luncheon at the Hotel Lenox with a group of Harvard students, prayed for the university across the Charles.

She did so after facing a barrage of hostile questions, ending with her discovery that only one of the group believed in Christ.

Earlier, "horrified" Harvard officials refused this group of students permission to entertain the evangelist within the chaste walls of Dunster House or in the semi-religious atmosphere of Phillips Brooks House, or in any other college building.

IT "HORRIFIES" HARVARD

Plans to entertain her and have her discuss her doctrines with Harvard students in general had to be hurriedly abandoned.

"The idea is horrifying," said one Harvard official.

"I'd be scared to death to grant such permission," said another.

Aimee learned she was barred when the students, 12 in number, met her for the preliminary luncheon at the Lenox. She was to have gone to Harvard for her speech-making after this luncheon. Before the Harvard boys could tell her she couldn't come, her husband announced that it would be impossible for her to go.

And thus vanished into thin air the "high compliment" which she

League Council Votes 13 to 1 to Invite America to Attend Manchuria Discussions

Latest developments today in the Sino-Japanese situation were as follows:

1—Over opposition of the Japanese government, the League Council at Geneva today voted 13 to 1 to invite the United States to attend the pending parley on the Manchurian problem. Japan cast the single negative vote. The council decided to invite United States participation after several hours' debate in secret session.

2—Japan opposed American representation at the discussions because it feels that the United States government would be "unfair and irrational" in its attitude toward Nippon. Japanese leaders expressed fear that the council's act in asking United States participation in the parley will influence anti-American sentiment at home.

3—Sharp fighting was reported as continuing on the Manchurian front, Chinese troops being in retreat across the Liaier river after defeat by Japanese cavalry. Hostilities were marked by heavy casualties, especially among the Chinese forces.

Geneva, Oct. 15—Over-riding the firmly stated objections of the Japanese government, the League of Nations Council today decided to invite the United States to participate in its efforts for settlement of the Sino-Japanese Manchurian controversy.

The vote was 13 to 1, Japan casting the single negative ballot, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese delegate, stated as the Council adjourned its session that Japan op-

Reagan, on duty in the city treasurer's office, shortly after noon and said the money had been picked from the outer pocket of his topcoat while he was riding in the elevator from the street level to the city collector's office on the first floor of the annex.

Casey said he had just drawn the money, in large bills, from the Five Cent Savings Bank, and was on his way to turn it over for payment of property taxes.

He described a man about 35 years old 6 feet 2 inches tall, weighing 190 pounds and dressed in a light-colored coat and brown, soft hat who had squeezed against him in the elevator.

Prefers Jail to Telling of Shame

Jail for herself rather than shame for her relatives was the choice made in municipal court today by Miss Janet A. Stimpson, 63, of Gainsborough st., Back Bay, found guilty on six counts of forgery.

She refused an offer of Judge Goode to give her a suspended sentence on condition that relatives in Portland, Me., be questioned as to whether they would take care of her.

"I would rather go to jail for 15 years than have my relatives know I am again in trouble," she said.

"Yes? well," said Judge Goode, "I will sentence you to one year."

Miss Stimpson appealed.

BANK RUN HALTS ON ELY'S WORD

Depositors of the Somerville Trust Co. heeded the message of Gov. Ely today and not more than a dozen appeared for withdrawals at the bank's opening.

The bank was the scene of a run yesterday until $60,000 of State money was sent there and the reassuring message came from the State House.

The Somerville Institution for Savings, the main office at Broadway and Franklin sts., and branch in Teele sq., saw about 100 persons at each place.

Men and women, many of them carrying umbrellas, were kept in line by police under Sergt. Francis Cavanaugh, and payments were made as soon as each depositor reached the window.

In view of the ready payments, bank officials said they expected the call on the banks to subside before the close of business today.

POWERS INVITE U. S. TO GENEVA PEACE PARLEY

JAPS DEFIED ON MANCHURIAN SITUATION

Vote of 13 to 1 Admits America to Conclave; Fighting Still Goes On

posed the motion to invite America "on principle."

FEAR OUTBURSTS

Yoshisawa added that Japan did not even desire to vote on the question, but had done so at the request of Aristide Briand, president pro-tem of the Council and French foreign minister.

"We were obliged to vote against it since the constitutional difficulty with regard to American participation still exists," said Yoshisawa, referring to the Japanese protest that the invitation to the United States would establish an unwise precedent.

Notwithstanding Tokio's objections, the council was determined to draw America into its efforts to prevent war in the Far East that it deliberately ruled the result of an unprecedented affront to Japan which may conceivably create such an angry outburst at home as to force Japan's withdrawal from the League of Nations.

FRIENDLY TO U. S.

"We want America to understand that Japan's vote was absolutely non-political," Yoshisawa said.

"Our relations with America are most friendly, but after long consideration of the question we still maintain it is unconstitutional so far as the League covenant is concerned to invite a non-member of the League to sit with the council."

The crucial test was on the question of whether the invitation to the United States should be sent on unanimous or majority vote of the council.

"The council," said Yoshisawa, "endeavored to secure an affirmative Japanese vote by offering to change or modify the text of the invitation. Unfortunately, we were unable to comply since the text is immaterial to Japan."

Yoshisawa expressed extreme displeasure when shown cabled reports from the United States asserting that certain newspapers there had published statements from Geneva that the Japanese government had backed down and withdrawn its objections.

The Japanese foreign office earlier in the day had instructed its delegation here to use every effort to see that the proposal for including an American representative in the discussion of the trouble is dropped. The same instructions were embodied in the Japanese reply to the council's request to Tokyo for inclusion of an American representative at the conclave.

FIGHTING CONTINUES

The press of Japanese opposition to American interference came with dispatches from Mukden telling of continued fighting on the Manchurian front. These reports said Chinese troops were in retreat before Japanese forces after two sharp engagements. Several casualties were reported on both sides.

Chinese Troops Are Routed by Japanese

Mukden, Oct. 15—Chinese troops were in full retreat today across the Liaho river after two sharp skirmishes with Japanese cavalry in which the combined casualties on both sides totaled more than a score.

In the first of these one Japanese was killed and two seriously wounded. The second engagement, 15 miles northeast of Chuliuho station, lasted two hours. Sixteen Chinese were killed in the fighting and an unreported number of wounded carried off the field after the battle.

U. S. Seeks to Join in Geneva Parley

Washington, Oct. 15 (INS)—The State Department moved today to iron out differences between Japan and the United States over American unofficial representation in the deliberations of the League of Nations Council over the Manchurian crisis.

An amicable solution was sought at a conference between Secretary of State Stimson and the Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi. It was understood Stimson sought the aid of the Japanese envoy in explaining to the Nippon government the purposes of the United States in participating in the Geneva parley.

U. S. DEFICIT HALF A BILLION IN 3 MONTHS

Administration Is Worried as Tax Increase Looms; Expenditures Mount Amazingly

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Cold figures again emphasized the difficult financial position of the Government today the deficit passing the $500,000,000 mark.

For the first three and a half months of the fiscal year, which began July 1, the treasury books show the government to be $502,-196,600 "in the red."

JUMPS $185,000,000

Even as this was revealed, fiscal experts of the department were pondering over how to adjust the situation—whether taxes should be increased. President Hoover has said the study would continue some time, with no decision likely before Congress returns in December.

The deficit is $185,000,000 more than it was for the same period of the previous fiscal year.

At the close of business October 13, the government had collected from all sources $620,768,231 and had spent $1,121,474,831.

Receipts were $250,000,000 less than collected in the same period last year, and expenditures $200,000,000 more than in the first three and one-half months of last year.

TAXES FUNDS CUT.

The seriousness of the Government's financial position became apparent early this year when income taxes dwindled at an alarming rate and the Government finished the fiscal year with a deficit of $903,000,000.

The chief cause of that deficit was a decrease of $550,000,000 in income tax collections. In the three and one-half months this year income tax receipts were $241,000,000 less than collected in the same period last year, when they amounted to $561,000,000. Total internal revenue collections for the present year amounted to $481,717,-805 as compared to $738,621,055 last year.

Harvard Rejects Aid Plea

Harvard will remain on the side lines while eight other eastern college football elevens engage in round-robin tournaments for charity in the Yale Bowl and in New York early in December.

While no formal announcement of Harvard's refusal to participate has been made, the Harvard Crimson, university daily, stated today that overtures were made to Harvard and that President Lowell refused.

The Crimson in an editorial supports President Lowell's stand, and points out that the other colleges agreed "grudgingly," and refused to donate the net proceeds of a regular season game.

Holy Cross, Yale, Brown and Dartmouth will engage in the Yale Bowl tournament on Dec. 5. Princeton, Cornell, Columbia and Pennsylvania will play in New York Dec. 9.

B. C.-H. C. GAME

This plan was hit upon by the colleges in response to an appeal by Owen D. Young, chairman of President Hoover's Committee on the Mobilization of Relief Resources.

Holy Cross and Boston College will also donate part of the proceeds of their annual game to charity, and Harvard has donated the use of the stadium for this game, on Thanksgiving Day.

"The climax of an open season for charity football games has been reached in the formulation of the plan involving eight colleges who gave grudging approval to the admitted commercialization of their football teams," says today's Crimson editorial.

"The very admission on the part of the participating colleges that they have compromised their policies by agreeing to join in the frenzy of charity games strengthens the approval one must accord President Lowell.

"GENEROUS GESTURE"

"No one can deny that to fall in with the proposal would have been a clever way of making a generous gesture and carrying off applause as gracefully as possible in a bad situation.

"A method of assisting unemployment relief has been suggested to the president, and as he has declined to accept the means and its concommitant sacrifice of principle."

Williams to Give Part of Proceeds of One Game

Williamstown, Oct. 15 (AP)—Williams College does not care to play a post-season football game to aid unemployment, but probably will contribute part of the proceeds of one of its major games to charity, Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president, indicated today.

The question of a post-season game was raised by Gov. Ely, a Williams College man, who wrote to S. Sabin, manager of the varsity football team, suggesting a game with Springfield College here on Thanksgiving Day.

Williams' decision not to play post-season football was said to be based upon the strain to which its players would be put.

3 ARRESTED IN STRIKE FAIL TO APPEAR

Canter, Edith Berkman and Donegian Defaulted at Trials in Lawrence

Lawrence, Oct. 15—Harry Canter, Boston Communist, was defaulted and a capias issued for his arrest when he failed to appear in district court today for trial on a charge of causing a disturbance in connection with the textile strike.

A telegram addressed to the court was read by police. In it, Canter said he was engaged in Superior Court at Boston. Judge Frederic N. Chandler, after hearing it read, issued the capias and declared Canter's bail of $100 forfeited to the county.

Technical defaults were declared against Edith Berkman, charged with speaking without a permit and causing a disturbance, and Badros Donegian, charged with causing a disturbance and passing out handbills without a permit.

Miss Berkman, leader of the striking radicals, is in custody at the immigration station in East Boston, her bail on deportation proceedings having been revoked in Federal court at Boston. Donegian is under mental observation at the Danvers state hospital.

Samuel Bramhall, candidate for mayor, was found guilty of speaking without a permit and creating a disturbance, and was fined $20. He argued he had a permit from Alderman Adam Eberhardt to speak any time he wished, on the Common, and he said the police caused the disturbance. He appealed.

The state board of arbitration and conciliation met with 60 strikers' delegates in the city council chamber today. The public was barred.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 15 (AP)—John Carron, although in State Prison for breaking and entering, has been permitted to visit the bedside of his mother, who is critically ill, one of the few instances in which a prisoner has been permitted to leave an institution in this State prior to parole or expiration of sentence.

Under an order issued by Chief Justice William H. Sawyer, Carron was allowed to go to his home in Grafton in custody of High Sheriff George A. Wooster and spent three hours at his mother's bedside.

The novelist arrived in America yesterday looking for historical figures for his writings.

"Don't you think Texas Guinan as romantic a figure as any of your heroines?" he was asked.

Although the Prince maintains his residence in London, and the Countess lives in Paris, the two have been seen often in each other's company, and the Prince's crossing of the Channel has become routine.

The announcement made yesterday was a fairly definite assurance that the royal pair will tie the marriage knot, but no definite date for the event was set.

Wonderful things are done by science, while ordinary mortals pursue the fleeting dollar.

In Rome, 50 famous physicians hear from Prof. Millikan, of the California Institute of Technology, about a new microscope for measuring the velocity of electrons. It must be a good microscope.

An atom consists of a nucleus or protons, with electrons revolving around it, something like our sun, as nucleus and the planets as electrons. A miniature solar system makes up one atom. It is very "miniature," for you could have a million such atoms in the corner of your eye, without noticing them. And they are sprightly electrons. Our earth goes around the sun, once in 365 days. An electron goes around its proton-sun several TRILLION times in one second, difficult to believe, but a fact.

Patrol Wagon Wife's Birthday Gift to Jameson

Marlboro Man in Double Divorce Fight Tells of Cursing and Yelling Tantrums

"Tortures of the dammed," suffered by Robert H. Jameson, Marlboro business man, made his wife happy, he testified in Middlesex Probate Court today in the continued hearing of their cross divorce actions.

Jameson said he did not know whether to try and have his wife committed to an asylum or to have their children taken away from her by legal means.

Jameson also testified his wife promised to give him a patrol wagon on his birthday, and kept her word by calling the police.

He was questioned in cross-examination in the separate support suit of Mrs. Josephine M. Jameson and his own petition asking the court to decree he is living apart for justifiable cause.

CALLS HER TORTURER

Both are seeking custody of five children.

Asked by Atty. Edward McLoughlin if his wife was happy during their married life, Jameson replied:

"She was happier when I suffered. At times I suffered the tortures of the damned, and the more I suffered the happier she was.

"At times I didn't know whether to have her committed to an asylum or to have the children taken away by legal means. On one occasion I talked with Dr. Winfred Overholser of the State Department of Mental Diseases in regard to my wife."

Atty. McLoughlin produced nine blotters from the Marlboro police department and questioned Jameson as to many entries showing that officers were called to his house.

He testified regarding an entry dated December 7, 1929, when he said his wife had called the police.

PATROL WAGON GIFT

"It was my birthday," Jameson said. "My wife had told me the previous night she was going to give me a patrol wagon for my birthday. That morning I was in the kitchen preparing breakfast for the children. Mrs. Jameson was upstairs cursing. She came downstairs.

"I went into the pantry to get something from the icebox. Mrs. Jameson took a platter of fried eggs, put them in a pan of water, and fled."

Later, he said, his wife called the police.

Carl E. Walker, foreman of the Metropolitan water works plant whose office is 500 feet from the Jameson home, testified to hearing a woman scream and curse many times in the Jameson house.

MANY $10,000 BETS 'ALL WET' SAYS BOOKIE

Hileah Track Took Gangster for $110,000; Also a Big Loser at Poker

Chicago, Oct. 15—Al Capone lost $110,000 betting on the horses at the Hileah Track at Miami, Fla., from January to March, 1929, Budd Gentry, a bookmaker, testified today, at the trial of Chicago's underworld king for evasion of income tax.

This sum put Capone's total losses, as so far revealed to the jury, up to $327,000.

Half a dozen defense witnesses yesterday had sworn that the defendant dropped $217,000 on the ponies at other tracks.

CASE NEARS JURY

Following this testimony the defense announced that although it has not formally closed its case, they had put on their final witness.

Just before the luncheon recess, defense Attorney Michael Ahern made a motion that Judge Wilkerson order a directed verdict of "not guilty" on all counts in the indictments covering the time prior to 1928, specifying that the statute of limitations applies to that period.

Arguments in this issue are all that remain before the case is given to the jury.

Capone himself, of course, did not take the stand. It was a foregone conclusion that he would not. His defense was predicated entirely on the proposition that he lost most of his income in gambling on horse races.

One of the high lights of the day was the reappearance of Harry Belford, alias "Hickory Slim," one of "big shot" gamblers of the country. He said Capone lost between $20,000 and $25,000 betting with him on the races in 1927.

MANY $10,000 BETS.

Gentry, a flashily dressed, partly bald man of about 50, who wore a light gray suit and a bright red tie, declared he became acquainted with Capone in Florida in 1929 when he was working for a bookmaker at the Hileah track.

Gentry told the court $10,000 was the biggest bet he was commissioned to take from Capone. He said Capone made several bets at that price and was a heavy loser, dropping about $110,000.

POOL WINNER IS BEATEN UP

Lawrence, Oct. 15—Methuen and local police have joined forces in making a search for a 35-year-old man who last night brutally assaulted Wilfred Kirkman, 16, of 2 Highgate st., this city, the holder of a winning lottery ticket calling for a "pot" of some $3000 in cash.

Patrolman Thomas McCarron, of Methuen, came to the local headquarters late last night with Kirkman, who bore evidences of the beating which he had taken earlier in the night.

He told McCarron that he was walking on Elm st., Methuen, to his girl's house when a man jumped from an automobile and set upon him beating him until he was dazed.

When questioned, Kirkman stated that he paid 50 cents for a lottery ticket about 10 weeks ago and that on one following night he read the returns in a paper and learned that his ticket was good for $3000.

He said he had been warned not to press his claim for the money.

U. S. OFFICIALS IN GLAD MOOD

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Cheer over the outlook for business confidence evidenced itself strongly today among Government officials.

Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury said formation of the National Credit Corp. already has had much effect in restoring confidence.

Even as he was expressing that optimistic sentiment, Secretary Lamont was continuing his conferences with President Hoover. On leaving the White House he declined to say anything.

TELLS OF WIFE'S 'WILD PARTIES'

Joseph Dagnese, contractor, of Barpee rd., Swampscott, told Judge Alden P. White in Salem Probate Court today that his pretty wife, Louise, often went out on "wild parties and stayed away all night."

Dagnese is seeking a divorce on grounds of habitual intoxication and desertion.

"Many of her friends, both male and female, often called at our home, and they were nearly always intoxicated," Dagnese testified.

Miss Jenny Dagnese testified she met her sister-in-law on a street car in Lynn and the Mrs. Dagnese told her of "parties galore in a house off Danvers rd., Swampscott."

"I saw her at a later date on Market st., Lynn. She was arguing with a man over money. Both had been drinking," Miss Dagnese testified.

Mrs. Dagnese did not appear in court. The couple were married Oct. 19, 1919. Dagnese said his wife left him in May, 1928, and never returned.

Capone Told to Stay Away From Game at Evanston

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 15 (AP)—Al Capone has been invited to stay away from Northwestern University football games.

Jack Leach, chairman of the editorial board of the Daily Northwestern, commenting on Capone's recent appearance at the Northwestern-Nebraska game, said:

"You are not wanted at Dyche Stadium nor at Soldier Field when Northwestern is host. You are not getting away with anything and you are only impressing a moronic few who don't matter anyway."

Leach complained that Capone at the Nebraska game "swept in with an escort of motorcycle police like an emperor going to his coronation."

NAVY SLASHES 1933 BUDGET

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Meeting President Hoover's demand for greater economy, the navy today completed and transmitted to the White House a revised budget, slashing substantially the appropriations to be requested for the fiscal year 1933.

Secretary Adams let it be known that the reduction made was not quite $61,000,000, the figure understood to represent President Hoover's wishes. He would not, however discuss the new proposal further. Originally the navy asked for $401,000,000.

Since the administration is understood to be committed against further cuts in the building program, the reductions are expected to cut right across the existing program for naval activities.

Substantial reductions in personnel, laying up of many fleet vessels and the closing or abandonment of some navy yards have been mentioned as probable means of securing economy.

MARY ASTOR IS SECRET BRIDE

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Copyright, 1931

New York, Oct. 15 (US)—On an oath of secrecy Mary Astor whispered to me the history of her secret marriage to Dr. Franklin Thorpe, Hollywood physician and surgeon.

Mary, under her real name of Lucile Rangbarker, and Dr. Thorpe were married in Yuma, Ariz., by a justice of the peace on June 29.

Rumors that the widow of Kenneth Hawks had chosen a second husband were circulated, but so insistent was Miss Astor in her denial that the story was promptly forgotten.

For several weeks I have been in her confidence and, now that she has permitted me to speak, I think it is interesting to tell something about Miss Astor's bridegroom. He is a young physician with a future. Although his specialty is gynecology, he nursed Mary through her illness when she was threatened with tuberculosis.

"It was his advice," Mary told me, "that brought me back to health. No wonder I fell in love with him."

Dr. and Mrs. Thorpe are in Hollywood. They expect to take a honeymoon in New York, where Dr. Thorpe will visit some of the New York clinics. Mary will continue with her screen career.

MOTHER AND 5 SAVED IN CAVE

Bluefield, W. Va., Oct. 15 (AP)—The rocky, musty cave, deep in the hills, where a widow and her five small children and three "roomers" made their home for months, stood deserted today, while authorities sought "real" homes for the little ones and aid for the mother.

Meanwhile, bright-eyed, curly-headed Jesse James Hinkle, one year old; Alice, three; Albert, 6; Alma, eight, and Ulah, 10, munched warm food and wore new clothes, in the care of probation officers.

W. T. Farley, probation officer, was tramping through the hills when he came upon the cave. Smoke was rolling from the hole in the hill. He found the woman cooking on a battered stove.

The cave, under a steep cliff, with jagged rocks for a ceiling and the bare ground for a floor, was divided into two compartments. In one was an old wooden bed. Boxes served as chairs and tables. Boards were the other beds.

Despite hardships, the children seemed in perfect health, Farley said.

DOYLE FLAYS HOTEL MAN

Max J. Benstock, former manager of St. Regis Hotel, Essex st., was sentenced today by Asst. Dist. Atty. Fred Doyle at the close of his trial on several vice charges in Suffolk Superior Court.

Doyle charged Benstock with "making the filthiest money that human mind can conceive" in summing up for the prosecution before Judge Hall and a jury.

He declared that the defendant, who is 44 posed as a samaritan to a 19-year-old girl, Constance Twitchell, and then introduced her to Chinese patrons.

"Benstock split with the girl on a 50-50 basis," declared Doyle.

Atty. J. T. Cassidy argued for Benstock, who is charged with maintaining an unlicensed lodging house, receiving support by improper means, keeping a public nuisance and possessing improper photographs.

The jury retired with the case at 11:30.

Patrolman Is Freed on Attack Charge

Frank Carlin, Medford patrolman, was freed today in municipal court on a charge of assault and battery on a store clerk. Carlin was arrested last week after he charged the clerk with molesting his wife. The latter, George K. Dodge, suffered a fractured ankle when he fell from the blow.

The complaint today was dismissed because Dodge refused to prosecute.

LABOR UPHOLDS 2.75 BEER PLAN

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 13 (AP)—The American Federation of Labor reaffirmed its stand today for legalization of 2.75 per cent beer at the coming session of Congress.

Two motions which attempted to obtain the Federation's support for the repeal of the Volstead act and the Eighteenth Amendment were defeated. The executive council's recommendation for beer was adopted without debate.

Edward Flore, international president of the Hotel Workers and Beverage Dispensers' Alliance first moved to substitute for the executive council's report resolutions advocating repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Flore was ruled out of order by President William Green. Then Flore moved for a division of the committee's report on the prohibition question to make it possible for the delegates to agree with the committee in principle and still urge repeal of the amendment. He was overwhelmingly voted down.

A little later Green was re-elected president of the Federation by acclamation. His nomination and election was attended by wild outbursts of enthusiasm.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 15 (AP)—Thomas A. Edison today was on the threshold of the coma from which his physician does not expect he will ever awake.

The inventor's only nourishment since Sunday has been six spoonfuls of stewed pears.

Charles Edison announced today that his father had awakened at 7:45 and almost immediately gone back to sleep.

More than 4700 automobile insurance claims are under scrutiny today by a committee backed by Governor Ely at the behest of Massachusetts insurance companies, who claim fraud has been practiced by lawyers and doctors.

The committee, headed by Frederick W. Mansfield, president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, was organized at the insistence of at least 30 insurance companies

COAST GUARD FIRING FLAYED

Providence, R. I., Oct. 15 (INS)—"This was utter disregard for human life," said Judge Ira L. Letts, in the United States District Court today, in criticizing the coast guard for firing upon an open motorboat in Mt. Hope bay last April, which endangered the lives of three men.

The trio, Raymond Coleman and Warren Mosher, both of Riverton, and Leo P. Mousseau of Fall River, were fined $1 each by Judge Letts on charges of transporting liquor.

According to testimony, the three men were in a 28-foot motorboat towing two other small boats when the Coast Guard fired, sinking all three craft. Three cases of liquor were salvaged by the Coast Guard.

Judge Letts in commenting on the case, said he saw no reason why the craft should be fired upon as it could only proceed at a slow rate, and further that he was "surprised" that the charges were brought against the trio in view of the circumstances.

Remarkable cases from the records of the French Detective Police in which scientific methods were used to solve mysterious crimes are told by H. Ashton-Wolfe in the American Weekly in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

Husband Ordered by Court to Stop His Public Nagging

Chicago, Oct. 15 (AP)—A Chicago court has issued an injunction against nagging in public.

It was directed against Peter Dowidaitis by Judge Joseph Sabath in favor of Peter's wife, Victoria, who is suing for separate maintenance. The pair run a grocery store.

Under the injunction Peter must not stop while waiting on a customer and ask his wife what she did with the $1.25 he gave her last week, or engage in other forms of nagging

Mrs. Dowidaitis complained that Peter persisted in picking arguments during business hours.

2 POLICE HELD IN AUTO DEATH

Charged with responsibility for the death of Charles Clark, 76, of Winn st., Burlington, killed by a hit-and-run driver near his home, two Medford reserve police officers were held in $1000 each in Woburn court today.

The officers, Thomas S. McLean, 25, of Everett st., and Wilbert Larson, 31, of Yeoman ave., pleaded not guilty and their cases were continued one week.

McLean was charged with manslaughter and with leaving the scene of an accident without disclosing his identity, and Larson with accessory after the fact in assault and battery.

Clark was struck down on the Burlington-Woburn highway last night, and Woburn police later stopped the car driven by McLean, which was found to have both headlights damaged. The two officers were later arrested by State police.

Receiver Is Asked for Medford Firm

A petition for the appointment of a receiver for the Frankini Bros. Co., Medford contractors, so the business of the firm may be continued was made by officials of the Boston Sand and Gravel Co. of Scituate in Suffolk Superior Court, today.

The gravel company officials contended it was their opinion that the Frankini company was solvent and that important contracts now giving work to the heads of more than 400 families would be halted if a receiver is not appointed.

JAIL TERM GIVEN F. O. WHITE

Frank O. White of Marion st., Brookline, co-trustee of the William L. Underwood estate of Belmont was sentenced to 18 months on Deer Island today by Judge Williams in Superior Court for the theft of $10,000 from the estate.

Evidence showed he had received a check for that amount from Tucker, Anthony Co., brokers, on Dec. 23, 1929, and converted the money to his own use.

Dr. William B. Robbins of Belmont, testified that White consulted him in the Spring of 1930 and that he was in a dazed condition and didn't seem to realize what he was doing. Dr. Robbins said at the time White "seemed to have the mentality of a boy of 10 years."

Chicago, Oct. 15 (INS)—A few minutes after midnight tonight five men will follow one another to the electric chair at Cook county jail.

The doomed men are Frank Bell and Richard Sullivan, killers of a cafe owner; John Popescuen and Charles Rocco, murderers of Courtney Merrill, a banker, and Frank Jordan, who shot and killed two policemen.

Warden David Moneypenny of the county jail made a futile attempt to rescue Bell from the chair. He appeared before the parol board and recounted how Bell had saved his life and the lives of several jail employes by averting a violent jailbreak.

'MEDICINE MAN' TO MAKE ALL LIVE TO 70

New York, Oct. 15 (AP)—Prediction that man's average life is about to be increased to 70 years, due to a "new type of medicine man," was made at the American College of Surgeons' meeting today by Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., one of the foremost American medical authorities.

Dr. Mayo also declared that an enormous amount of insanity is the price of present day civilization.

In an address before the American College of Surgeons on "adding years to your life," he said:

"The world has moved so fast in material civilization that man has almost got behind in his power of adaptation. Every other hospital bed in the United States is for mentally afflicted, insane, idiotic, feeble minded, or senile person. There is an enormous number who are almost fit for the asylum.

"Many persons live to an age when they are dependent and senile. Only 5 per cent of our people, at the age of 65, have independent means. I would rather die when my brain fails than to live on."

He said we passed through more wonders of life in 40 years than was possible for old people in the past.

Good health, he said, rested with the individual, who must learn to take care of his health early in life.

Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland said emotions, fear, worry, hate and jealousy affect every cell in the body.

"Some organs are stimulated," he said. "Others inhibited, all are disturbed; waste products are increased, foundations of certain characteristic human diseases are laid. This is particularly true of those who have made civilization what it is, and who now bear the burden, who have the greatest capacity for work and worry."

Dog Without Water or Food 16 Days Loses 12 Pounds

Penn Yan, N. Y., Oct. 15 (AP)—William Duval's children have their pet, a two-year-old beagle hound, back with them again, although a trifle thin after 16 days' imprisonment in a wine cellar without food or water.

D. A. Duval, an employe of a wine company, located the lost animal by accident in one of the cellars used for ageing wine. The dog had fallen through a trapdoor and was almost dead of starvation and thirst.

Today the dog apparently was as well as ever despite a loss of 12 pounds in weight. He refuses now to go near the wine cellar.

WHAT A GAMBLE CROSS-COUNTRY RACING IS! ONE of the leading steeple-chase classics in this part of the country of the gentlemen amateurs will take place on Saturday when the Myopia Hunt Club will hold its annual fall race meet on the Bradley Palmer estate, Willowdale, in Topsfield.

MRS. SUMNER PINGREE

Speaking of Bradley Palmer recalls to mind that he has evaded the wiles of wimmin, at least matrimonially, for years and years. We were told long ago that he is a sort of idealist—has never met his Princess Charming, and also that he cherishes a secret admiration for Lady Hamilton, light o' love of Admiral Nelson of English history fame. His library is filled with volumes relating her story in various ways, and many pictures and paintings of this famous but now long-dead lady are reposing in his portfolios.

It has also been rumored that he chose his pretty secretary some years ago because she remotely resembled the fair Emma, Romney's favorite model. Apparently the resemblance stopped there, as he never made her Lady Palmer.

Sumner Pingree's Favorite Horse Entered

OF COURSE, WE SHALL SEE SUMNER PINGREE'S horse, Soissons, entered in the country racing. He has eight victories to his credit, maybe more at this writing, and will have keen competition in the stables of Algy Goodwin.

SUMNER'S WIFE, THE blonde Mary Weld, is a clever judge of horses and keenly interested that her entries reach the tape ahead of all others. A story is told of a race which she attended at Brookline two years ago when her horse, Endless, was in the running. Chubby Mary stood at the rail, hands clasped and murmuring: "Oh, dear God, let my horse win this race." On observing that Endless had dropped back to fourth place, she gazed at the Heavens and said aloud, "Dear God, if my horse doesn't win this race, I'll say things a nice girl shouldn't even dream about." Endless came on and won, and Mary whispered, absently, "He heard me." You can imagine with what anticipation Mrs. Pingree is looking forward to Saturday.

ON FRIDAY MORNING THE Pingrees will give their delightful breakfast party for those who follow the hounds in the early morning drag hunt. The sheer beauty of the changing landscape is enough to guarantee a large attendance, but, as one North Shore matron confided in us, "We have fed our horses all summer, in spite of the depression, we feel we should use them for the hunting season and then—Heaven help us, we will have to shoot them or give them away."

* * *

DID YOU KNOW THAT BOSTON has scads of pent-houses, duplex apartments, co-operatives and what not? Well, we have lately been pent-housing and truly they are the cutest places to tuck oneself into. While in no way a pent-house, Barbara Reynolds of Junior League and Vincent Club fame has the most beautiful and tasteful apartment on the top floor of the Junior League building, decorated by that artist of the interior designing world, Nina Campbell, the Elsie DeWolfe of Boston. Another delightful skyward apartment is the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Henrion on Beacon st. Mrs. Henrion is the lovely Southerner who resembles Greta Garbo and of whom everybody enthuses. Her attractive husband is the head of some terribly important museum at Harvard.

IN TWO WEEKS THE BOSTON HORSE SHOW will again add to the festivities of the social season. If we can't have grand opera—except for two weeks late in the winter—we at least can get a peep at the social celebrities during the Horse Show week, and the golden horseshoe at the Boston Garden is almost as resplendent as that of the Opera House. And they are heaps more fun to watch.

* * *

IN SPITE OF THE POPULARITY of home talent, the brilliant officers carried away the honors and the girls last season and with the English and French teams competing on the 27, 28, 29, 30 and 31, the home town boys have got something to worry about. The debbies simply outdid themselves to make life happy for the uniforms last year and Mrs. Larz Anderson must have constituted herself official hostess, for her box was simply overflowing with bright blue coats during the show.

Mrs. Larz Anderson

IF THE TRUTH WERE known, we imagine the various members of the horse loving set look forward to exhibiting themselves as eagerly as they do their horses and we for one are glad they do, because we like to see diamonds and ermine once in a while just to feel we have something to work for. Until our dying day, we will not give up the dream of owning a Russian sable coat and some square-cut diamonds. Fame as a journalist will never compensate us, and even that seems remote at the moment.

HOLMAN-BOYDEN WEDDING TAKES PLACE AT ANNAPOLIS ESTATE

Boston Society Favorites Are Bridesmaids

Dwyah, the Annapolis, Maryland, estate of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Boyden, was the scene yesterday of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Aurina Boyden, and Mr. Ralph d'Entrement Holman, of Brookline, where the Boydens also made their home until recently. Miss Boyden is known here for her accomplishments in the athletic line, in which, since her graduation from the Misses' school, she has shown great proficiency, particularly in the ladies' squash championship as well as tennis.

Miss Martha B. Rolph of Centreville, Md., attended the bride as maid of honor, while four friends were bridesmaids. Miss Elizabeth Germain, of Boston, Miss Mary C. Hall, of Hingham, and the Misses Jean L. and Virginia S. Brewster of New York.

Mr. Holman, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Holman has chosen Miss Boyden's brother, Mr. Dwight Hayward Boyden, as his best man, and the usher group included Messrs. Walter M. Rankin of New Bedford, Robert A. Jones of Ridgewood, N. J., David Houston of Wilmington, Del., and John D. Wallace of East Orange, N. J.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Dartmouth, and since then has been in business here. He and his bride will come to Boston to live after their wedding trip.

Miss Lillian Moriarty and Mr. Crocker Snow St. Michael's Church in Bristol will be the scene of their marriage at noon, with a reception following at the Newport home of the bride's father, Mr. G. Mr. Snow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Snow of Bay State rd. His brother, Mr. William Snow, also of Boston, will be his best man.

Attending Miss Moriarty as maid of honor will be her cousin, Miss Virginia Fair, and as bridesmaids Miss Gwendolyn Armstrong, Miss Sarah Woodward, Miss Alice Warterman and Miss Olive Whitman, all of Boston or vicinity.

Both the bride-to-be and her fiance are well known in aviation circles, having had their pilot licenses for several years. Mr. Snow is a graduate of Harvard, class of '26, for which he prepared at Middlesex school in Concord. He is now president of The Boston Skyways, Inc., and will bring his bride back here to live after their wedding trip.

To go on with the weddings November 6 is the date set by Miss Mary Louise Butterfield for her marriage to Mr. Alexander V. Ingram-Eliot in the First Church of Chestnut Hill. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Butterfield of Hammond st, where the reception follwing the 3 o'clock ceremony will be held.

Mr. Ingram-Eliot's home is in London, England, but for the last year or two he has been living in Forest Hills, L. I.

Miss Gray to Be Married in November

Miss Marian Munroe Gray daughter of Mrs. Kenneth P. Budd of New York, is to become the bride of Mr. C. Oliver O'Donnell, also of that city. The wedding will take place next month. Miss Gray is a niece of Mr. William A. Burnham and Mr. Frederic M. Burnham of Boston. Her father is Mr. Austen Gray, who last April married Mrs. Rawson Lyman Wood, widow of Rawson L. Wood and mother of Mr. Rawson Lyman Wood who married Miss Elizabeth Frances Ford in Cambridge last Saturday.

Mr. O'Donnell was graduated from the Naval Academy in 1919.

!!!! Christopher Columbus !!!!

We've Made A "Discovery" Too!

Crowds . . . . .
came opening days. Now a host of items equally good for Friday

Literally thousands made "voyages of discovery" to Summerfield's yesterday . . . and were as richly rewarded with "finds" as was Columbus. To those whom we could not serve promptly we apologize . . . to those who have not yet made their "voyage of discovery" we say come tomorrow for then truckloads of new discoveries every bit as great as those of opening day will be ready.

All items subject to prior sale so be here early.

One day last week, with Columbus Day approaching, we got to thinking about Columbus, his great discovery, and discoveries in general. The thought struck us that we ought to do a little discovering too . . . so we set sail for our Warehouse. For days we did NOTHING but discover. We discovered merchandise that we never dreamed we had left . . . odds and ends, it's true . . . but perfectly desirable and fashionable. We discovered enough to fill our floors to capacity twice over. We brought over all we could cram in for opening day selling . . . and marked it at prices that would make Queen Isabella go out and "soak" the family jewels again just to be sure of getting all the bargains possible. Now we've brought over another big lot from our warehouse for Friday and Saturday . . . every bit of it as remarkable as that which brought crowds before.

by popular demand to give other thousands a chance to share

Crowds jammed our stores all day on opening days . . . so many we couldn't begin to serve them all properly . . . so many we are forced to search out new savings, new discoveries in our warehouse . . . to give those who were unable to secure the bargains they wanted on opening days. Another opportunity to select from replenished stocks tomorrow.

On Sale Friday and Saturday—First Come, First Served!

ANOTHER ATTACK OF PROPHETIC MADNESS

By GILBERT SELDES

"HAVE YOU NOTICED," inquires K. M. Dale, "that in the two weeks since you stopped giving opinions and advice on the present crisis things have looked up, stocks are higher, Hoover has done something, and the depression is virtually over?" The answer is yes, I have. I've also noticed that the Cardinals won the World Series and that the weather has chilled perceptibly. And I'll stick to my story that the present situation of the world is interesting and exciting beyond words; what's more, I will instantly unfold a great scheme to make it permanent by putting millions of people to work on entirely useless projects. One of them is called, grandly, "Anticipating the Future, or the Devolution of Cities."

GILBERT SELDES

Stop Radio City

I was walking the streets of a fairly large city (New York) the other day and being harried by traffic nuisances decided that all the defects of urban life are due to accidentals, such as greed for high rents, haste and thoughtlessness in construction, and an overwhelming desire to cluster 'round the center of things. Looking about me I saw simple ways to remedy all our ills, and the complete and beautiful solution came as I approached the two vast open squares which, unless I can prevent it, presently will become Radio City.

In one of those flashes which seem too bright to be true, I saw that the greatest service Mr. Rockefeller could do to New York would be to suspend building operations entirely, and set all his workmen to the much more desirable task of making a great park in the midtown center of the city. The empty space, even as it lies now, with the rubbish of ancient buildings, with derricks and diggers, makes the surrounding buildings more attractive. With trees and lakes and flowers, it would be one of the most beautiful gardens in the world.

Do Not Concentrate

As I understand it, Radio City will be a conglomeration of buildings devoted to making money out of entertainment. The whole trend of entertainment has been to spread itself over a wide area—witness radio and the movies, with their success, against the concentration of Broadway theaters with their floods of red ink in the ledgers. Why, then, build a whole little city to concentrate the very thing which can be so easily distributed? Just because there is a financial center (and look at it!) and a garment center, must there be an entertainment center? Can't Roxy operate just as well 10 miles from St. Patrick's Cathedral?

I use Radio City as an example because it hasn't yet gone too far. The general principle is simple enough—ask the engineers who now are creating the machinery of the future what their machines will be able to do. Ask inventors what aeroplanes will accomplish 15 years from now. Ask about the distribution of power. Ask, in short, whether it will be necessary to crowd human beings together in great cities when all the things which made cities necessary no longer will exist.

I suggest that we address ourselves almost entirely to practical men; to that special group of practical men which is dealing in futures. It happens that they agree with theorists to this extent: They admit the possibility of distributing our cities over wide areas, they inform us that it will not be compulsory to live in tenements forever. The theorists merely say that these things are desirable.

No one believes that the city which was created in the era of gas and the steam engine is the only refuge of humanity in the time of electric power, air traffic and radio. Yet we go on building skyscrapers and apartments which differ in no fundamental from the structures of 20 years ago. Their function is the same, even if their comforts are greater; they serve the same purpose and are guilty of the same offenses.

We'll Still Live

I suggest that we assume life will go on 20 years from now and that we use money and brains and labor to create the kind of communities we will want 20 years from now. Outside Boston, Chicago and New York lie vast territories which have been beyond the commuting limit until yesterday; today they are closer than uptown was to downtown 20 years ago. Why not, instead of building subways, lay out cities far beyond subway limits—such cities as Ford has foreshadowed, with industries which do not have to be near the retail buyer, with a little air and outlying farms? Why not admit that the telephone really works and that a time may come when aeroplanes will stay in the air more than half an hour?

I suspect that the head of the Chicago Public Library is defaming either his patrons or his property when he says, "Calls for Charles Dickens and his contemporary English writers are more numerous than ever before. Chicagoans want literature that is syrupy-easy to take." My first wonder is whether Mr. Roden ever has read Dickens: my second, whether Chicagoans aren't more perceptive than their officials.

I am not an abandoned Dickensian; I do not swoon. But just as it would annoy me if a mathematician announced that two and two never make four, or if a statesman said that America had solved all the problems of the world, it irritates me to hear talk of Dickens as syrup. Because certain passages are sugary to the point of sickness, the tart, malicious, satiric quality of Dickins is completely forgotten.

Our moderns imagine that the attack on respectability began with them, forgetting the unforgettable chapter in "Our Mutual Friend," which is called Podsnappery and includes a conversation between Podsnap and a foreign gentleman which nothing in Babbitt can touch. "Mr. Podsnap," it begins, "was well to do, and stood very high in Mr. Podsnap's opinion . . . He never could make out why everybody was not quite satisfied, and he felt conscious that he set a brilliant social example in being particularly well satisfied with most things, and, above all other things, with himself." Is that sugar? And the discussion of the unfortunate habit of the poor (the habit of starving) which follows isn't saccharine—not this winter.

Even the marvelously good-humored Pickwick has sharpness and bite—about social and literary lion-hunters, about politics, about fools and knaves. It was Dickens fortune (ill-fortune for these days) that he could hate the sin and love the sinner; he could grow furious over filthy jails and find humor in a jailer; he never hated any of his characters except those whom he deliberately made too hateful to be true. But he was so much a lasher of respectability that in his time people detested him as they now detest Upton Sinclair (who, however, isn't as good a writer or as interesting a man as Dickens was). He wrote a few death scenes which make the sensitive squirm. But he had little to do with the Pollyanna school; he didn't write the literature of escape; and he can be read now with relish because he had a hold on actuality and knew how to make novels out of it.

PAID $100 FOR JOB, HE SAYS

Lawrence, Oct. 15—A few days before he was hired as an employe of the city engineering department, Michael P. Kiley, of Essex st., paid $100 to a henchman of Alderman John W. McCarthy, head of that department, Kiley testified today in the trial of McCarthy and two others for alleged job-selling and other graft.

The trial, which again drew a large crowd for its second day, is being heard before Judge Louis S. Cox and a jury in Superior court, with the jury under day and night guard.

McCarthy's co-defendants are John F. Sullivan, foreman-carpenter, and Joseph M. Rinehart, clerk in the engineering department. All are accused of accepting "gratuities" from employes and prospective employes.

The witness, an elderly man, testified he drew the money from his savings account two days after McCarthy was elected in December, 1927, and turned it over to Sullivan. The day McCarthy took office, in January, 1928, Kiley went to work as a laborer at the city water works, he said.

Prior to the payment, the witness testified, he had been a campaign worker for McCarthy, and during that period had "talked over" with the alderman "the matter of employment.

More Wreckage of "New York" Found

Halifax, Oct. 15 (AP)—Cabequid Bay continues to give up small bits of wreckage from the ill-fated mail plane New York, which crashed Oct. 6, but still hides the body of Rudolph Wogenknecht and the fuselage.

Parts of broken pontoons were picked up by fishermen and the search was being continued today in the hope that the plane's body might be found in the vicinity.

Another Story Now

Ursula Parrott, author of "Ex-Wife," has material for another story. She is the wife of Charles L. Greenwood, Brooklyn banker. He's 31, she 30. Besides being a divorcee, she is the daughter of Dr. C. H. Towle of Dorchester, now dead.

Mrs. Collings to Stay in Stamford Awhile

Herman O. Chelius of Dorchester, father of Mrs. Lillian Collings said today he did not expect his daughter to join him at his home, 7 Mouliric st., for at least another week. Mrs. Collings, he said, has been asked by New York authorities to remain a little longer in Stamford, Ct., while their investigation of the murder of her husband, Benjamin aboard his yacht is still active.

M'DONALD QUITS AS MINERS BOO

Seaham Harbor, England, Oct. 15—Prime Minister MacDonald was unable to obtain a hearing when he attempted to deliver a campaign speech at the Shotton colliery here today and abandoned the talk after he was hooted down.

The prime minister then offered to answer questions, but even his answers were greeted with shouts. "Hoods have never owned me and never will," MacDonald said.

The premier's speech was brief. He gave it as his belief that war debt and reparation payments, suspended by the Hoover moratorium for one year, will never be resumed.

Horse Bucks Hedges in Newton Runaway

Four children narrowly escaped injury today when a horse became frightened in Watertown st., Newtonville, ran several blocks and into the yard of John J. Healey, 503 Watertown st.

The horse, attached to a Hood milk wagon, plunged through one hedge, tangled in another, and was stopped.

The driver, Frank Stein, Newton, finally controlled the horse.

'CHAINS' RENEW FIGHT ON TAX

Washington, Oct. 15 (AP)—Chain stores renewed in the Supreme Court today their campaign to prevent states from regulating them by taxes.

Having failed at the last term of the court by a 5 to 4 decision to invalidate the graduated tax imposed by Indiana, they now attack the North Carolina law which imposed a straight $50 tax on each store of two or more operated under one ownership.

John W. Davis, counsel for the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, contended the North Carolina case presented issues not passed on by the court in the Indiana case.

Atty.-Gen. Brummitt of North Carolina maintained a state can impose such a license fee for the privilege of engaging in the business of merchandising, and require each place of business to pay the tax.

SPAIN'S ACTION ALARMS ROME; BREAK NEAR

Vatican City, Oct. 15—Complete breakdown of all relations between the Vatican and Spain was forecast today as a result of the anti-religious articles being incorporated in the new Spanish constitution.

A Vatican spokesman declared the situation in Spain was so serious as to necessitate action more drastic than the lodging of a simple protest.

It was reported today that Monsignor Tedeschini, papal nuncio to Spain, had been recalled to Rome.

He was summoned back, it was reported, on the grounds the Spanish republic had failed to fulfill the Vatican's expectation of a more conciliatory attitude following removal of Cardinal Segura y Saenz, archbishop of Toledo, as primate of Spain.

A high Vatican official pointed out that while the church did not fully approve of the new republican regime in Spain, it was ready to accept formal separation of church and state, as provided for in the new constitution.

This separation, it was said, would be acceptable to the Vatican on the same basis prevailing in the United States and the South American republics, whose authorities guarantee the church certain liberties, particularly regarding religious institutions, orders, convents and schools.

Azana in the Presidency; Alfonso Has Eye on Madrid

Madrid, Oct. 15 (AP)—President Manuel Azana took possession of his official offices today and called an extraordinary meeting of his new cabinet to orient the administration in dealing with vexing religious differences

In Paris it was said former King Alfonso and his monarchist associates are watching the situation closely. They have abandoned engagements so as to keep in touch with developments, friends said today.

At Barcelona several hundred university students paraded today with placards reading "Long live Catholicism" and "We want liberty of education."

Mayor Lets $31,000 Roxbury Contracts

Street and sewer improvements in West Roxbury calling for the expenditure of more than $31,000 will begin within a few days as a result of contracts awarded by Mayor Curley today.

Donley Bros. were commissioned to construct bituithic paving in Carrollton st. and Spring Valley rd., at a cost of $11,696, and Anthony Cefulo received a contract for sewerage works in Edgemore and Hinsdale Rds., at a cost of $19,722.

Turkey Day Games to Start Earlier

Frederick J. O'Brien, associate director of physical education in the Boston public schools, informed Mayor Curley today that schoolboy football games in this city on Thanksgiving Day will begin at 9 o'clock instead of 9:30 in order that fans at those games will be able to reach the Harvard Stadium in time for the Holy Cross-Boston College battle for the benefit of the unemployed.

Police Seek Aged Women's Lost Purse

Mrs. Matilda Erickson, 76, of 360 Shawmut ave., appealed to police today for aid in recovering her pocketbook, containing credentials she needs in applying foran old-age pension, which she lost on her way to the State House.

The woman said the bag vanished after she laid it down on a counter in a grocery store in Tremont st., South End.

Scientists say that England's population doubled in the 50 years following the use of glazed, china plates. The old wooden plates and bowls formerly used were full of cracks which harbored germs which spread disease and plague. Read about this in the American Weekly in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

POLICE HUNTING MILLION IN JEWELS

New York, Oct. 15 (INS)—A secret vault cache ablaze with jewelry worth an estimated million dollars was the quest of police today following their arrest of New York's most dramatic gem robbers who for eight months have been the terror of New York's Mayfair.

The Park ave. "Raffles" and his aid, both dapper-looking youths, were viewed at the police station by a steady procession of New York's elite—dowagers, debutantes, stage and screen stars and social registerites, all of whose houses had been looted by skilled burglars.

Mrs. R. Stanwood Menken, society leader, who was trussed up in her home by robbers who escaped with $150,000 worth of jewelry, was reported by police to have identified the men.

Mayor to Attend West Point Game

Mayor Curley plans to attend the Army-Harvard football game at West Point on Saturday. Unless something comes up to interfere with present plans the Mayor will leave Boston tomorrow afternoon en route to the game.

CLARK GABLE RAPIDLY CLIMBING MOVIE LADDER

THE VOICE OF Broadway By Louis Sobol

Hymn of Hate!

The man who doesn't care for poetry,
And sees no beauty in the rolling sea,
The man, I say, whose fiber doesn't thrill
When robins carol on his window sill—

The lad, who in the whisper of a breeze
Perceives no song, no godly harmonies,
Has, of the joys of life a scant amount,
(Though, as a rule, a handsome bank account.)
—GEORGE D. LOTTMAN.

Out of An Envelope!

Dear Mr. Sobol: I am a so-called love expert. Oftimes I sit wracking my brain what is to be my next lecture. The tiniest suggestion would be like manna falling from the skies. Sometimes I get it in one of my "fan" letters (O, I get them, too). Sometimes I get it from strangers, speaking to them, opening up a conversation (they never suspect me).

The tabloids call me a "Love Expert." Your own paper . . splashed my picture on pages with screaming headlines—"Club woman says men are more fickle than women."—"Love Expert says, 'Smack your husband once every day.'" (I meant, of course, kiss him.) I have been quoted, repeated and applauded in your paper, as well as others, dozens of times. People tell me what a great girl I am. I have had them come to me with the wierdest tales of sex and insanity any one can ever imagine. Little children write me letters in big childish scrawl, begging for advice for their mothers on how to keep their daddies home (undoubtedly dictated by their mamas). I was always loyal to the name the newspapers crowned me with. Advised each one with the wisdom God gave me, and guided them with the benefit of my own heartbreak—mine from past experience.

I've often sat with the swish of despair within my own heart, moaning like the wind—like the sound of crying voices in lonely homes where the larder is empty and the candlelight flickers its last, weak flames. I have sat in my shack in a Western town without neighbors for a long distance and vainly tried to look out of the windows, which were obstructed by walls of snow several feet high, hearing no human sound, no stirring except the moan of the wind . . and I was fifteen years old—and married. At an age when most girls are in an elementary school, I was sprawled on the floor, that was covered with ice, fixing the plumbing (my young body distorted with impending motherhood). Did I say I heard no human sound? My error. I heard my husband's chortles and snores as he exhaled fumes of applejack. We were snowed in under four feet of snow and the thermometer registered 40 degrees below zero. There was no one to do anything for me. I had to do for myself—or die.

I remember rats as big as tom cats nibbling at my toes, waking me with terror for the other little life that was to come. I heaved buckets of coal into the black gullet of a monster that stood over six feet high in my empty wooden "library." I called it that because it sported a few second-hand books on my elaborate soap-box table. I hate the man who shared them with me. I was in constant fear of freezing to death—fear not for myself—but for the child that was to come. And no one to talk to except my drunken husband—and an Indian woman, who was bloated with drink, too.

Once the heavens and earth crashed with pain and fear—and there it was. A little, red-faced thing, screaming. You ought to see him now. And me. I've lived in the swankiest hotels since, in America and abroad—Bermuda, Havana, Palm Beach, Paris, Berlin. Newspapers in this country report my arrival and departure.

Four years ago, I gave up my husband—after he tossed me around for exercise and broke my arm. When I was just past sixteen I washed and cooked for five brutes—each one leering at me like a hungry wolf. I washed their dirty linen. When my boy was five I came East. I opened my eyes to the sun, and found warmth flowing into my starved body. I worked. I slaved. I hoarded pennies. I read every thing I could lay hands upon—Socrates, Spinoza, Aristotle, Plato, Maeterlinck—all their wisdom prepared me with a clear outlook—and a glib tongue.

I learned to talk. I learned to flatter. I learned the graces of society. I was received, entertained, quoted—and misquoted. I met doctors, lawyers, statesmen, bankers, industrial leaders, and clergymen. Their wives, too. Tired, gray women holding on to their dignity—and some holding on to their children. Others holding on to nothing.

I began to discover something about "gentlemen." They tried to make love to me without exception—and they were far from obvious. I've met decent men, too, of course. And one man in particular—with whom I fell in love. His name you know—a man twenty years older than I. An important figure—they call him the "Beau Brummell" of the theatrical world.

He bought me an engagement ring with a 14-karat rock—so big, I was ashamed to wear it. He bought me a car for each birthday. He showered me with the luxuries of the world. Then he started to nag me because I was too devoted to my son. He made life miserable. I gave him back his ring and wired him that I was sailing for a trip to different parts of the country. He tried to find me but couldn't. I hear that he still carries my picture in his favorite watch. He's still unmarried.

Now there's a boy—a handsome, clean boy—and he loves me. He says he'll wait for me until I die. And here, here am I, terribly lonely. I have been alone so long. I, the love expert, the woman who lectures and writes on affairs of the heart—I am lonesome because I can't make up my mind. My one terrible experience with marriage thwarts me. Recently I met my ex-husband. He seemed gray beyond his years. His face was blanched (in my home town they call it "white un ler the gills"), his hands were unsteady. He kept shifting from one foot to another. He tried to light a cigarette and his hands shook. Now you'll think I'm simply daffy—but I felt a tug at my heartstrings. My eyes travelled to the hair that was so coal black once—and to his shaking fingers. I quivered inside. What do you make of all of this—incoherent as it must be? Tell me—you a Broadway columnist, you tell me, the so-called "love experts." Shall I marry the nice boy who loves me—or what shall I do?

Newest Hollywood Find Comes to the State Screen Tomorrow

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

The fall of Susan Lenox will prove just one more rung in the ladder by which Clark Gable rises in the cinema world. When he acts—and how that boy can act!—opposite Greta Garbo on the Loew's State screen tomorrow, fans will see him within one step of stardom for himself. He happens to be the greatest bet in Hollywood at the present moment, on the male side, and M-G-M have set their minds on work for him that will put his name up brightest in the bright lights.

* * *

The first word of Gable's ascent into the calculations of the "council table" at the studio came to us from our good friend, Victor J. Morris, manager of Loew's Orpheum. Home from his visit to the coast, where he hobnobbed for a month with the film who's who, Mr. Morris sounded like a press agent for Gable, so loudly did he sing the capable actor's praises. But all the manager predicted is coming true, and the fans will be happy, for Gable has established himself as a sure-fire performer by dint of excellence in every part he has undertaken in pictures.

Clark Gable

Since then, talk with folk just out of Hollywood has verified the Morris forecast in every detail. Gable, it also seems, is the most popular man in the movie zone, in and off the sets. He is fourth-and-ready, all he-man, with genial personality, rather shy if anything, simple in his speech and bearing, and with a capacity for keeping his cranium the same size despite all his great fame.

* * *

Asked what his greatest ambition is, he replies:

"To make enough money to permit me to travel the world over, see places and do things."

"Right now I'm getting the breaks," he declares. "Just a lucky chap, that is all.

"I'm not kidding myself about this burst of good luck. I hung around Hollywood for a long time without landing a job. The best I was offered was extra work at $7.50 a day. My pride wouldn't let me take it and I'm mighty glad it didn't because I probably would still be an extra at $7.50.

"What happened I don't know. I just got a lucky break. My face is unchanged. I'm no different looking than I was when I couldn't get a job. I happened to get in a picture that turned out good and gave me a chance. That's all.

"Funny thing, the way I caught on. I really came into pictures backwards, as a heavy. Most fellows start in as a leading man and wind up doing heavies. You see I played Killer Mears in 'The Last Mile' on the stage—out here and drew some attention to myself as a gangster. The gangster picture craze was on and I landed the gangster role in 'Dance, Fools, Dance.' Other similar parts followed. That was good fortune enough. I was on easy street as far as I was concerned, as a good future ahead as a character or heavy type and was very well satisfied. Never for a moment did I harbor any ambitions or hopes to be a leading man. I didn't think I had that kind of a face.

"My part with Norma Shearer in 'A Free Soul' was the pivotal point in my career. When I was assigned to the part I frankly didn't think I could do it—not all that love stuff.

"My role opposite Miss Garbo is my first straight lead and a mighty swell part. After this, well I don't know. If the public and producers think I'm still a leading man and not a villain, you don't think I'll complain, do you?"

Gala New Program at the Bowdoin Today

QUAKER MAN'S COMING

Phil Cook, radio star, who comes to the Met stage tomorrow for week's engagement. Sketch by Staff Artist Charles Schmidt.

THE GLOBE TROTTER

President Hoover's latest move to aid in the return of prosperity, not only to the nation but to the world, is strikingly presented in the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, now at Loew's State. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Mills clearly explains the President's proposal as that body is able to understand it fully.

There is a picture from Wenatchee, Wash., at which point Pinghorn and Herndon, the Japan-to-United States fliers, completed their epochal trip. Hearst Metrotone News cameramen arrived at the field in time to get the fliers climbing out of their airship after having set it down minus its landing gear.

A remarkable picture shows Mahatma Gandhi on his visit to Lancashire, Eng., where thousands of workers have been thrown out of employment partly because of India's boycott of English cotton goods.

American track stars run off with most of the honors at the meet in Cape Town, So. Africa.

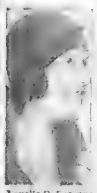
Paramount Signs Authors to Write Especially for Their Stars

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service



Louella O. Parsons

They tell a story in Hollywood that William Wellman, the director who was let out by B. P. Schulberg, went to Paramount to direct a picture. The old battle was on. Bill and Ben could not get along together. So Warner Brothers took Bill back with open arms.

Bill's contract expires February 1, so I suppose that he will know now where he stands with Warners the old contract was torn up and he was given a new one.

Evelyn Brent

Claudette Colbert

I had a long talk with Carl Laemmle, Jr., just before I left Universal City. Junior is in charge of production, as you know, and Norman Foster is directing.

I hear that Claudette Colbert is slated to come to the coast to confer with her husband Norman Foster, who is directing Evelyn Brent in Mexico. It is rumored that the two of them were not getting on as well as a young married couple should. Rather than take the risk of having people say they had definitely split Miss Colbert dashed across the country just to let the inquisitive reporters see her make an appearance with husband.

Miss Williams returns to Hollywood in the spring there will be a new deal with Radio.

So much depends upon the script given Mary Boland that Paramount have all their scenario experts looking for a comedy for her. Miss Boland is now on tour with Vinegar Tree and since that looks like a long engagement, no definite plans have been made for her first picture. She has signed a contract with Paramount and will be given the type of role which she has made such a success on the stage.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

GREATER BOSTON NEWS

THIS IS LIFE

PRICE DEFLATION MAY DO THEATER MORE GOOD THAN ANYTHING ELSE

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

THE WELCOME NEWS COMES from New York that the theater managers announce a top price of $3 for all evening performances. It is a return to the prices of 1915 or thereabout.

ROBERT E. ROGERS

Carroll's "Vanities" led the way with a $3 top. The Shuberts have followed suit. Mr. Ziegfeld, because of his very expensive production, feels he must still get $4 and $5, but he has reduced his balcony prices. These are all musical plays, which habitually command the best prices, and it is a foregone conclusion that dramatic offerings will have to follow suit.

Here in Boston prices have never been so senseless as in New York, although musical show prices have been going up steadily. This season the average Boston price seems to be $2.50 in the evening, with marked reductions for matinees. The $3 top is to be noted only occasionally.

The [illegible] (and reasonable) deflation will do more good to the theater than anything else I can think of. Years ago the Broadway producers killed "the road" with high prices and second or third companies, and of late it seemed obvious that they were killing off the theater-going public of the largest cities by the same methods. To see the most interesting and the most unusual plays one had to go to New York. Only the sure-fire hits could be counted on in the "provinces" or an occasional "succes de scandale."

Boston Supports Good Offerings

The New Yorkers with their habitual provincialism counted this fact to the credit of New York's higher civilization and the stagnation of the "provinces." But we in the provinces, who watched the dwindling audiences of the theater, ascribed it to different causes; to the New York practice of sending out too many of the most elementary of their plays, often with inferior casts, and at high prices.

That we will support good theatrical entertainment at reasonable prices, the success of the attractions playing in Boston at present indicates. Mrs. Hutton may be disappointed at her gate receipts, but not the Aborn people sponsoring Gilbert and Sullivan.

The whole theatrical game, like every other game in America, became enormously inflated during the past decade. The difficulties on the road may, it is true, be laid to something over which the theaters had an control, increased railroad rates, although so far as I know no major theatrical manager ever seriously investigated the possibility of using motor caravans for the purpose of once more tapping the small cities that are reputed hungry for theatrical entertainment.

But the inflation within the theater itself must be laid at the door of an acquiescence in salary and production standards which were obviously absurd. It would seem almost as if the stage-play producers were trying to kid themselves into the belief that they could match the costliness, the lavishness and the luxury of the Hollywood promoters in their million-dollar spectacles.

Blames Everyone But Himself

The salaries of the actors and other entertainers went rocketing to a height that could be justified only by a succession of smash hits. But such is the temperament of the actor that he never blames a series of failures on himself. He blames the author, the director, the critic, the public, never himself. That is why, I suppose, he is an actor.

And finally the stage crews and the musicians came in on the high-wage program.

These, plus the old American habit of charging all the traffic can bear, produced during the last decade the box office prices which made theater going impossible for all but the well-to-do, except on special occasions, gave the movies more of a break than they needed to capture and control the theater-going public, ruined the provincial theater in America, and seriously affected the theater in the great metropolitan districts. Too many went, as a matter of course, to New York if they wanted to see an unusual play.

The theater had its greatest days as a democratic entertainment. It was democratic in the scale of its productions, its salary scales and its box office prices. It was aristocratic in that these conditions made it worth while for men of genius to write for it, who were satisfied with something less than a fortune for a single play and could write in the knowledge that their offering were reasonably interesting it would stand a good chance of production.

Paves Way for Healthier Conditions

Today the costs of production make the producers chary of gambling on anything less than a smash hit. This alone almost accounts for the flood of sensationalism, restoration naturalism, profanity and filth which has inundated the New York stage in the past five years. In addition, the supposed necessity of staging plays which would sell at enormous prices as movie scenarios still further vulgarized the theater.

In strong reaction to this the intellectuals in the theater swung so far to the other extreme to the sophisticated, continental, psycho-analytical pieces of intellectual and moral perversion that the sincere, serious, old-fashioned craftsman in the theater had a pretty tough time of it.

Like all situations in which we are suffering, it is a very complex one, not to be explained by any one of two causes. But if one believes that the basis in most affairs of life is economic one cannot but think that a drastic lowering of prices, such as is obviously under way, with a liquidation of the entire situation of theatrical inflation, may, like the salutary blood-letting in which our ancestors believed, pave the way for a healthier and a more popular American theater.

W. H. Woodley Will Fly to Alaska if Son Cannot Be Taken From Ravine

W[illegible] dog teams were rushing aid to the Rev. Father G[illegible]e H Woodley Wollaston priest who was found critically injured in a ravine near Anchorage, Alaska, William H. [illegible] and [illegible] reports from Anchorage [illegible] Father [illegible] was found yesterday in a deep ravine. His neck was broken, and aid was summoned from Anchorage, the nearest settlement.

MAY STILL BE ALIVE

No word had been received today from Anchorage as to whether Fr. Woodley, whose neck was broken while hunting, had died. Meagre reports only told of finding the priest, his neck broken, but did not say whether he was still alive.

Mr. Woodley said today he had [illegible] an airplane flight to Alaska to search for his son, but could again hire the plane if it was necessary to go to his son's side.

The elder Woodley declared that his other son, Arthur, who is also in Alaska, might be able to convey Fr. Woodley in a plane to a hospital.

LOST FROM PARTY

Woodley said he had on a recently returned from Alaska where he had spent several weeks with his sons, the priest and his brother Arthur. He said the boys spoke often of a hunting trip and it was on this trip the accident was [illegible] and injured perhaps fatally. According to the latter, Fr. The other men launched a search for him yesterday and [illegible] Arthur A. [illegible] night and through most of yesterday they searched [illegible] until the priest's body was found in the deep ravine.

Father Woodley is a secular missionary priest doing volunteer work with the Jesuit order. He attended St. John's Nazareth school, South Boston, with his brother Arthur, former Boston College track star and now a [illegible] in Alaska.

'Give Your Soul, Keep Your Dime'---Aimee

Written Exclusively for the Boston Evening American

—By—

Aimee McPherson Hutton

Every day since I came to Boston someone has said to me most sympathetically, "Isn't it too bad that once there was no nickel and dime?"

That brings me to my feet with both fists going. I'm not going to answer that once and for all. Dimes or souls, that's what it amounts to. And I'm saying once and for all that I'm after the souls, not the dimes.

There is an expression [illegible] and that's mine, but I'm not going after dimes." I'm not [illegible] "nickel and dime" as I understand the slang phrase, is used to describe a grubber after wealth in a pleasure way. If I were after wealth I hardly think I should stand before thousands of people each night crying my message to them for the few paltry dollars which go to pay the rent of a huge auditorium.

By the way, did you ever notice the inscription on a quarter? Notice that inscribed thereon is the motto "In God We Trust."

That's my motto. In God I trust. Now there's no such inscription on a dime. I guess that leaves me out of the "nickel and dime" class.

As I replied to my friend Mayor Curley when he quipped last week about the huge amount of money taken in at the gate of the World Series baseball games:

"We can trust God more than we can trust people."

DEEPER THE BETTER

When I tell those thousands in front of me to dig down and find something for the Lord I mean it. The more they dig down the better I like it. If I can get them to dig deep enough probably they will begin to realize that there is a Lord.

If people had to pay for Salvation maybe some of them would set more value by it. But because I and many like me are trying our best to lead them to salvation as a gift, they try to avoid it.

I have come to the East without any support from [illegible] organized church financial boards. I have not with me the daily help of men who for years have gathered the finances to build churches here and carry on their affairs.

SOULS IMPORTANT

The Lord's work costs just as much as the devil's labors. The highly organized church boards of the East know that. Many of them withholding their support from me know full well the financial difficulties of such an undertaking.

I'm not [illegible] any [illegible] any other [illegible] I'm after souls. [illegible] any other [illegible] I'm after souls. [illegible] there's faith to [illegible] the big money road which leads to [illegible] Give your souls to the Lord. It's more to me than [illegible] your [illegible] to the collection plate.

INDIA TEA

To Mothers

whose children won't eat

NATURE knows best. Never cook a child to eat! Remove the cause of a youngster's poor appetite. When appetite fails, tongue is coated white, eyes are a bilious yellow, don't give small children a constipating cathartic that drains the system. California fig syrup is all the "medicine" they require.

The Child's Appetite Will Always Respond

Specialists will tell you that a sluggish appetite almost always means the child has a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children seem to need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

Children who get fig syrup, now and then, soon have the appetite and energy of young animals! They keep well and avoid colds and sluggish spells.

Nature never made a finer laxative for children; and they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California fig syrup. It's purely vegetable, but every ounce of it is all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. The very next day, your child will be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the fig syrup a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

A single IF

The promises made by the bottlers of California Fig Syrup are true, and it will do the same for you, IF it's genuine CALIFORNIA Fig Syrup. Don't accept substitutes.

FANNING

—By GEORGE UNDERWOOD—

"Benny Havens, Oh!" ↑ First Harvard Game.
Army's Great Song. The West Point Way.
Great Men Sang It. ↓ The Michie Stadium.

"HOW IS THE COW?" AND RIGHT ANSWER

Come fill your glasses, fellows, and stand up in a row,
To singing sentimentality, we're going for to go
In the Army there's sobriety, promotion's very slow
So we'll sing our reminiscences of Benny Havens, Oh

Prohibition may come and Prohibition may go, but Benny Havens, Oh" goes on forever. It is the Army song—THE Army song. It is what "Fair Harvard" is to Harvard Old Nassau is to Princeton, "Men of Dartmouth" to Dartmouth and "Bright College Years" is to Yale. The Harvard hosts who throng Michie Stadium next Saturday will hear "Benny Havens, Oh" booming across the gridiron just as the men of Harvard heard it on their first visit to The Plains way back in 1895 and just as it was written and sung by O'Brien of the old 8th Infantry, then at the wrote it in the tavern of the old saloon keeper, Benny Havens before the Civil War. O'Brien was an Irishman. What could be more natural than putting the words to the tune of "The Wearing of the Green"

Some great men have sung and drank to "Benny Havens, Oh" Generals U. S. Grant, Robert E. Lee, Sherman, Sheridan, Custer, Stonewall Jackson, all lifted their voices and raised their glasses to it. In Grant's memoirs he tells of how in the days before the Civil War the bands on steamers passing West Point when they sighted Benny Havens "House-by-the River," would break out into "The Wearing of the Green" and the cadets and soldiers there would sing "Benny Havens, Oh" to the tune of it. General Grant sang "Benny Havens, Oh" as Commander-in-Chief and President of the United States, just as he sang it when a poor plebe at West Point.

Plebe days are "goat" days at The Point just as they were when Grant himself was a plebe there. Still do the upper classmen ask, "What do plebes rank?" And still the plebes answer, "Sir, the Superintendent's dog, the Commandant's cat, the waiters in the mess hall, the hell cats and all the admirals of the whole blamed Navy." If you don't know, the "hell cats" are the buglers who sound reveille

Another question upperclass men at West Point ask the plebes is "How is the cow?" The correct answer is, "She walks, she talks, she's full of chalk, the lacteal fluid extracted from the female of the bovine species is highly prolific to the nth degree"

Twenty thousand and more men of Harvard will make the long trek to West Point next Saturday. Long lines of automobile honk-honking like gray Canadian geese, special trains, three steamboats, will carry the Crimson cohorts to The Point and they will flow into Michie Stadium like a crimson flood. What a difference this Harvard invasion of West Point and Harvard's first. Harvard's first invasion of The Point—thereby hangs a tale

When that first Harvard Army game at The Point, way back in '95, was over and the little Harvard band was in the depot waiting for the train to take them back to Cambridge via New York, a committee of cadets handed them a bag of money with which to pay their expenses. Harvard accepted it with thanks

They did not count the money until they got back to Cambridge. Opening the bag they found a miscellaneous collections of nickels, dimes and quarters with here and there a dollar bill. Only a handful of spectators had witnessed the game. There was no "gate." Those nickels, dimes and quarters had come from deep down in the pockets of the officers of the post. The hat had been passed and those who ill could afford it had chipped in to pay Harvard's expenses.

Harvard did not like that. Such sacrifice saddened John. So he sat down and wrote a letter to the sons of "Benny Havens, Oh," explaining that Harvard really hadn't expected to have Army pay their expenses and wouldn't the Cadets please take the money back? But the Army, always proud, politely declined. There was nothing left for Harvard to do but to take the money and buy a handsome silver loving cup to commemorate its relations with the Army. To this day that silver loving cup occupies a cherished place in Harvard's halls.

When Harvard first went to The Point the game was played on the nearest open field. Later the Crimson and the Cadets met in the old wooden stands on The Plateau. On Saturday, Oct. 21, they throw out battlefronts in the beautiful Michie Stadium. If nothing else Michie Stadium, high up there on the palisades with Storm King frowning overhead and the blue Hudson flowing below has the most superb setting in the world

Michie Stadium is named after the father of Army football and the captain and coach of its first two teams, Dennis M. Michie. He died a hero's death. As first lieutenant and aide of his brigade commander, Michie was organizing two companies at the Bloody Bend of the San Juan River, preparatory to the charge up San Juan Hill, when a Spanish bullet snuffed out his life

Back in 1890 Army received a football challenge from the Navy. Cadet Michie, who had played football at Dartmouth, was the only man at West Point who knew anything about football. So it fell to Michie to organize and teach the Army team. There were no uniforms. The ladies of the post, wives of the officers, made them out of any material that was on hand. The Cadets played in their old drill uniforms and saved the football suits for the game. Michie taught the Cadets the flying wedge and how to tackle But he couldn't do much in the short time before the game and Navy won. It was a different story, however, the next year But let's save some of the Army-Navy reminiscences for another time.

"A good wife is a treasure says the Bible

And a good wife is also a good treasurer," adds John Pepper Martin in speaking of his own wife.

Mrs. Martin is the treasurer of the household. She is also the receiving teller and the general disbursing agent. All the Martin earnings go to her. And she O. K.'s all the bills.

If any one doubts the bravery of Pepper, they've only got to convince him of it every time Mrs. Martin lets a hat, husband or girls' shoes and toys. Next to opening the door to your wife's knock at a burglar, nothing requires more nerve than to submit to such a test of courage.

Pepper Wears What His Wife Selects

You can't blow any cigars in the room to cover up tobacco or other enemies of P. Martin wears what he's told to wear.

Next to baseball Martin loves hunting. Whenever he is free he goes to Arkansas, the land of his birth, and spends a month or two on the farm.

His wife is an excellent shot, and often accompanies "Pepper" on his trips. He plans to go after big game when his present vaudeville tour is over, and hopes to bag a few deer.

Martha was born up in among Ozarks and even was the girl he came to be one himself. But he isn't an Indian. We've heard say he's Part Irish, English, Scotch, German and Dutch. That leaves him at least 1-8 per cent American.

Martha finds journeys to be more frequent and accidents more perilous than her past. Gabby Street, manager of the Cards, has already, as I hear, Martha on device and will present a substantial increase in salary next season. Martin has earned it.

One more person made a hit with but one man can and often has made a good hit in the last game.

That's what Martin has done for the Cardinals.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

How the factors of Force and Resistance oppose each other in your own golfing action are revealed in the work of Seagrave, the Englishman, who drove his automobile at some 231 miles an hour on the Ormond Daytona Sands. The car in which you go to your golf course has, let us say, one of the larger eight-cylinder engines of some 100 horsepower. It would do a speed of, say, 90 miles an hour. To attain three times this speed approximately, Seagrave had to build 12 times the power into his engine. He had the identical resistance to deal with that meets your own golf ball in its flight. This should drive home for you the [illegible] of bringing the [illegible] to the ball. The more exerted physical force on your part, the less power you have on your clubhead. Your power must be in your clubhead. It is transmitted to the clubhead through smoothness of action and natural acceleration, or pace. It's your only chance. Take things more easily, acquiring greater smoothness. Results will be better immediately.

The Daily Dozen

By MYLES T. McSWEENEY

High school coaches do not football team on Sunday, neither Maybe the coach figured the boys would be good that day.

The coach has been criticized for holding a Sunday workout. But maybe he quoted the Bible to his players. The Book of Job.

Some coaches, judging from their statements, are familiar with only one book of the Bible. The Lamentations of Jeremiah.

There is a good book in the Bible for quarterbacks. Numbers.

One for the officials. Judges.

And one even for reporters. Chronicles.

Amen.

There is a mad scramble among managers to succeed Jewel Fox as pilot of the Pirates. Brave men who do not fear to walk the plank.

Schaaf, another ex-sailor, may meet Carnera in a ring. Shades of Schaaf and Schaef as a result of hearing the old chantey. Just give us time to blow the man down.

Carnera is still seasick.

Manager Lonergan [illegible] Mary Sachs, Lynn coach, says West Point is a place for training officers, not for making football players.

Boston University players don't want to run their own team. They figure that if they are that smart, they should all be coaches and draw coaches' salaries.

That failure of the market to turn, without artificial stimulus, will convince the skeptical they were right in assuming world unrest too great a hurdle for the markets at the time. This does not mean they will not attempt to scalp profits should manufactured news reverse the trend. In the event the latter does happen they will temper all commitments with caution in order not to overstay what may prove to be a temporary move.

CLOSING FIRM IN WALL ST. DEALINGS

New York, Oct. 15—Important shares closed with a generally firm tone in today's trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The market was again unable to hold its rally of 2 to 7 points, advances being largely erased in the final hour, although the market improved in the last few minutes.

ADVANCES ARE SHOWN

Several active issues finished with net advances that ranged from fractions to a couple of points. The day's turnover was around 1,500,000 shares.

Rail shares led a fairly brisk advance during the earlier hours of trading, as it was reported in Wall Street that the Washington administration may soon announce its plan for stabilizing railroad bonds.

Although the upturn was not sustained, it was regarded as highly encouraging, as it checked a decline which threatened to exceed normal technical proportions, for the losses of the past two sessions had canceled roughly half of last week's rebound.

Auburn made an extreme gain of 10, and Atchison of more than 7, but these were reduced to close to 2 points by the latest hour.

American Telephone, after selling up more than 4, closed only about a point higher. U. S. Steel was about unchanged, after a temporary gain of 2.

Miscellaneous issues closing 1 to 2 higher included Westinghouse Electric, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, North American and New York Central.

WALL STREET ENCOURAGED

Wall Street was encouraged by a better tone in foreign bonds, and considered better feeling in international banking circles over conditions aboard. Developments in Germany were interpreted as indicating that Premier Bruening still had the whole-hearted support of the President.

Prominent bankers are inclined to view the loss of gold to Europe as of more hopeful significance than otherwise. Although more than 80 per cent of the net gain of monetary gold during the past two years has been lost, it was recognized during the inflow of this metal that it was embarrassing to foreign central banks, and several bankers had favored more aggressive measures to check the piling up of metal here.

Immediate cause of the demand for gold on the continent of Europe was the British lapse from the gold standard, which caused a depreciation of about 20 per cent in the continental banks' holdings of sterling exchange, which were large.

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

The Object of Their Sacrifice By Darrell McClure

GEE, IT'S A FUNNY WORLD—JUST A COUPLE OF DAYS AGO—WE WAS GONNA GET A MILLION DOLLARS FOR OUR MINE—NOW, WE FIND WE DON'T OWN IT AT ALL!
I GET THE WIM-WAMS WHEN I THINK OF CAPTAIN ALBERT AN' SAILOR BILL—'CAUSE THEY LOST ALL THEIR MONEY—AN' WRECKED THEIR SWELL LITTLE BOAT TRYING TO FIND THE MINE—
—AN' NOW, ALL THEY GOT IS $5000—AN' THEY'RE PLANNING TO SPEND IT ALL BY SENDING ME TO A SWELL SCHOOL—WHERE I'LL BE LIVING HIGH—AN' THEY'LL BE PAUPERS!
'COURSE, I'D DIE BEFORE I'D LET THEM DO SUCH A THING—BUT I'M TOO DUMB TO FIGURE OUT A WAY TO EXPLAIN THINGS—WITHOUT MAKING 'EM FEEL BAD!

COOK-COOS

By TED COOK

(Copyright, 1931, by the Boston Evening American)

Fretfulness caused by the depression has caused countless cases of dermalalogia, or itching of the face, according to Dr. Chas. F. Pabst of Brooklyn.

That seems fair enough—the depression was brought on by countless cases of itching of the palm.

* * *

Be that as it may, England says America will suffer more in the long run than Great Britain.

It's beginning to look that way, judging from the number of radio baritones who keep trying to sing, "Many Happy Returns of the Day."

SONG OF GLADNESS

I've learned to give the girls a chance, and they adore me,
And I am learning how to be quite gay.
I'm learning that the world was made expressly for me,
That life is just a time in which to play.
Once I was just as shy a lad as you are,
And no one seemed to think I was so hot;
But now I'm loved as very few are—
Inheriting a million helps a lot!

—WESLEY MARRS.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Sympathetic Aunt Bella:
There's a swell new song out —I'll Be Glad When You're Dead, You Rascal, You. Have you heard it?

—ANXIOUS.

Ans.—Aunt Bella pays no attention to anonymous threats.
Aunt (Cop's Aunt) Bella.

ART WORLD AGOG

* * *

Little Henry, at his play,
Shot his governess one day;
Mother thought it quite unkind—
Servants are so hard to find.

—GARTH BENTLEY.

And now is as good a time as any for authorities to deport the guy who wrote that song, "Trouble's a Bubble."

* * *

We don't care who writes the nation's laws, just so long as they don't turn song writers.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS
Don't be a pig, Madame.

Out of bounds.

Port of Boston

By JAMES J. DELANEY

After arrival here, the steamer Robert E. Lee, which came in from New York, went into dry-dock at East Boston for under-water cleaning and painting, preparatory to taking her place in the Boston-New York service for the winter. She will leave Boston on Monday night, and the steamer George Washington will make her first sailing of the season Tuesday. The Boston and New York will go into East Boston winter quarters.

MAY UNLOAD

Unloading of the cargo of coal carried by the four-masted schooner Harry G. Deering, which was badly battered and lost most of her sails after running into a northwesterly gale in Boston Bay, Sunday night, may be done here instead of in Calais, Me., her original destination. She is a anchorage off East Boston flats, after being picked up by the United States Coast Guard cutter Modave and turned over to a Doane tug boat.

Jay's Gift to Trade Is Slash in Prices

An unusual idea is being put into effect these days at Jay's where the 13th anniversary of that charming shop is being observed with a special sale.

Instead of expecting presents, Jay's announces that it is prepared to bestow a gift on each customer during the birthday celebration, in the form of a generous allowance from prices already carefully equalized on a tempting low level.

"Hats, coats, furs, frocks, undergarments and accessories," the shop announces, "are being helping of birthday cake."

The Hoover Method

Plain Denial of Constitutional Rights of American Citizens

In this free Republic, by mandate of the Constitution, the sovereign power reposes in the people of the several states. They are the essential factors in ALL equations because it is THEIR property, THEIR well-being, THEIR lives, THEIR liberties, and THEIR happiness, which are at stake IN EVERY CASE.

If there is hunger, THEY are the ones to suffer.

If taxes are to be paid, THEY are the ones to pay them.

If revenue is to be raised, THEY are the ones to provide it.

And so, if any relief measures in this time of acute emergency and profound business depression, are to succeed, these measures must have POPULAR SUPPORT. If business is to recover, there must be a revival of trust and confidence AMONG THE PEOPLE.

Why doesn't Mr. Hoover recognize these facts by acknowledging the sovereignty of the American people through the recognition of the people's duly chosen and lawfully constituted representatives—the members of the two Houses of Congress?

What business has Mr. Hoover trying to pledge adherence to his plans through hand-picked consultants and conferees in advance of congressional sessions?

Why does he continually attempt to usurp the powers of Congress?

If Mr. Hoover were doing his full duty, he would assemble the Congress and let the representatives of the people deal with the situation. Instead he tries to invade the legitimate sphere of Congress, and to influence the action of Congress, and to pledge the leaders to carry out HIS will.

PRESIDENT HOOVER HAS ALWAYS EXPRESSED CONTEMPT FOR THE OPINION OF THE AMERICAN MASSES.

Now he is attempting to proceed REGARDLESS of their opinion and REGARDLESS of the authority of their chosen representatives.

The unauthorized commitments of the President and his group of hand-picked consultants are NOT sure of ratification when Congress meets, and are wholly invalid without such ratification.

Such a course subjects the nation to embarrassments.

Such action by Mr. Hoover is unconstitutional.

It can operate only to the DISADVANTAGE OF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE.

The dogged refusal of the President to summon Congress in special session, while summoning EVERY OTHER interest in the country into an IRREGULAR SPECIAL SESSION in the shape of continuous White House conferences, is a direct invasion of the legitimate sphere of Congress and a plain denial of the constitutional rights of American citizens.

Mr. Hoover sacrifices American political rights in his own interest, and he sacrifices the welfare of the nation to foreign interests because his will is ALWAYS IN FOREIGN INTERESTS and he does not seem able to regard matters from an American point of view.

New Leaders Needed

Mr. Filene on World's Plight

Edward A. Filene, returning from Europe on the day that Daniel G. Wing of the First National Bank is appointed New England member of the billion-dollar credit pool, declares that the world's plight has broken away from the bankers, industrialists and labor leaders. Business revival and prosperity require new treatment by new hands, he says.

Mr. Filene is right in essence, if not in detail.

Labor leaders have no control over national or international finance, and can not be blamed for the catastrophe.

To their credit it can be said that they have persistently supported the one project that affords the promise of work, development of the national resources and the restoration of public confidence, namely, Mr. Hearst's five billion-dollar prosperity loan.

If it were not for the industrialists of the progressive New England type, who have done their utmost to keep their plants at capacity, to provide work and to establish reservoirs of unemployment relief, the "plight" of which Mr. Filene speaks would be terrible indeed.

These independent manufacturers have carried on bravely, to the utmost of their ability, in the face of the lassitude of the national government and of the cruel mandate of the industrialists of national scope to deflate the wages of labor.

It is the so-called great national bankers who have played the role of dog in the manger and are worthy of Mr. Filene's rebuke. With banks filled with idle money, they permitted American business to languish for want of financial nourishment and encouragement while they bent their efforts almost solely to protect the billions they had foolishly sent to the bankrupt Nations of Europe.

If there is to be a new deal, as there ought to be, the independent manufacturers and labor ought to be placed in the forefront of it. Because they have manifested courage and zeal and an appreciation of their responsibilities where the national politicians and bankers have signally failed.

The Heroic Dunphys

Doctors, Brothers, Gave Their Lives for Others

Dr. Pierce J. Dunphy, skilled and deservedly noted physician, suffering influenza and incipient pneumonia himself, struggled from his sick bed and drove his auto fifty miles to the bedside of a friend and patient.

The patient recovered. But Dr. Dunphy, worn out by exhaustion, succumbed to his own illness and died.

His brother, Dr. John J. Dunphy, has now marched the same heroic road. Too busy ministering to the wounds and hurts of others, this man, famous for his specialty, endured the anguish of his own suffering until surgical skill could not avail him.

Peace times have their heroes as well as war.

Two young men of extraordinary promise in medicine and surgery have given their all in devotion to their profession and in loyalty to their patients.

Massachusetts will miss them. But she will enshrine them in her deep affection and admiration. For greater love hath no man than that he would lay down his own life for others.

Just Scraps of Paper!

To what low estate all the piffle pacts that were "to end all wars" have fallen.

Manchuria's plight today proves their worth to accomplish their high-sounding aims.

Mars must be having a grand old chuckle as he looks down on Japan brushing aside the League of Nations, the League Court, the Nine-Power Treaty and the Kellogg-Briand "End-All-Wars" Pact.

Paper isn't much protection today against bullets and bombs and bayonets.

There is a stern lesson in the Enright picture-editorial, above, for the members of our own Pifflebund and our Peace-at-Any-Price Pacifists, if they will look past their noses long enough to heed it.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Earning Money at Home

"IS THERE any way I can earn money at home?"

Thousands of desperate women are asking that question. Winter coming. Dad out of a job or pinching along on half pay. The youngsters need shoes. And Jimmy should have his tonsils out before the cold sets in.

Elsie Robinson

"If only I knew how to do something . . . if only I could earn just a little!" cries the worried wife and mother.

"You do—you can!" says Elita Wilson, and proceeds to write a book telling over one hundred ways by which a woman may make money at home.

This isn't a book review department. But it's a human service department—and we're going to pass on the news about this book as a life saver for those anxious wives and mothers.

"HOW TO MAKE MONEY AT HOME" is a really practical book. Elita Wilson knows women and women's jobs. She doesn't present a lot of poetical bunk and trick pictures. She gets right down to brass tacks and tells Mrs. Bill Jones what she can make in her own kitchen with her own egg beater, sewing machine, paint brush, watering can, hammer and saw. Tells her how to go to work, how to sell her work, what to charge for it. As for example—

Handy with your needle? How about doll outfits for Christmas . . . ironing board covers . . . layettes . . . pine pillows . . . or maybe house dresses for the "perfect 36's" for whom the average store provides only figured circus tents? Scores of suggestions in that chapter.

A good cook? Ever think of putting up school lunches . . . picnic suppers . . . taking on the catering for small neighborhood dinners . . . becoming a doughnut specialist?

Like to write letters? Dozens of people loathe it—would pay you gladly if you'd help them out. Or there are people who'd be willing to pay a small fee if you'd read to them for an hour a day—though I don't think Miss Wilson mentions that opportunity.

Over a hundred practical suggestions—with complete directions for making a real job of a pleasant task. That book is going to do a lot for Mrs. Bill Jones. It's going to do more than put money in her pocket . . . it will put hope and self confidence back again, into her spirit.

Not an easy trick, that—with a housewife. I've been one of them. I know. Housework does something to you—takes something from you. Doing the same things, day after day, inside the same four walls. Pretty soon you feel as dull as your own dust mops. Got to hating it all. Get to thinking you don't amount to anything—particularly when you watch the unmarried girls clicking by to their work, fresh and gay, all set for adventure.

Don't feel that way, Mrs. Bill. You DO amount to something. You amount to a lot. Actually, you have a dozen crafts at your finger tips, where the office girl has only one. You have the stuff! Then use it. Put it to work. AND BELIEVE IN IT!

Go at that home job as you'd go at any office job, old girl . . . with the same confidence in yourself . . . the same wallop and pep and sense of gay adventure . . . AND YOU'LL WIN. And, when you do, write and tell me about it, won't you? I had the kitchen-sink-blues once myself.

Get the name again—"HOW TO MAKE MONEY AT HOME" by Elita Wilson. Any book shop has it. Get that book. Then get busy.

Just Folks

Achievement

Let him who will go running for the lights that gleam afar,
Where the music's tuned to dancing and the crowds of people are,
Give me the restful evenings with the family gathered round
And the few friends, tried and faithful, and that little patch of ground,
With its lawn and beds of posies, which reflect the care I give,
And I'll build a thousand memories to cherish while I live.

When I long for entertainment just to pass the time away,
I've no lack of mirth and frolic—with the children I can play.
Or in need of some diversion, as a happy group we'll go
Hand in hand to sit together at a neighboring picture show.
But we'll keep our wants in reason and we'll keep our pleasures sweet
And try to find the gladness that adorns our little street.

Oh, the book of life is written not in scarlet inks or gold
Or in deeds of dash and color. As a simple tale it's told.
When you reach the final chapter and you glimpse the pages through
All that memory has recorded as the worth while side of you
Are the joys and passing sorrows which the family has shared.
With the failures and achievements and the few good friends who cared.

'Tis the little house and garden where the life-time labors count.
Not in dollars but in friendships will our satisfaction mount.
Has the home-place been a haven where the children loved to be?
Do they turn and look upon it with a happy memory?
If, in spite of hurt and sorrow, the old walls have known content,
You have filled your life with glory and your days have been well-spent.

New York Day by Day

The "Gun Moll"

NEW YORK, Oct. 15—The other evening in a Tenth avenue coffee house I met one of the beglamoured creatures known as a "gun moll." The introduction was through a tendelion reporter on a gangster assignment. I expected a flinty and highly rouged lady—swift tongued, trigger minded.

Instead I found an unbelievably vapid, chewing gum type, bedecked in five and ten finery who might have stepped from a Vina Delmar novel. She was "crazy about Richard Barthelmess" and had won three Friday night prize contests in various dance halls.

Her patter was punctuated with "O. K." and "You're telling me!" All in all, a witless girl of about 20, the kind often found in movie ticket lines on Third avenue or balancing trays in depot restaurants in Chicago. Yet she had just figured prominently in the life of a desperado.

As she said, "he got a bum rap and is doing a bit up the river." She was terrifically conscious of the part she played in one of his adventures, displaying newspaper clippings from a bright red leather purse which showed them in cells at a police station.

So far as I could gather, she had been freed largely because of her youth and was now under the espionage of a correction school to which she reports weekly. It was interesting to note the part environment played in her waywardness.

She spoke of her father as "the old harp" and as one whom she never saw sober and there was the same indifference about her mother. "She went out with the horrors over at Welfare," she said, and added unemotionally: "A gin head, too."

I am told most of the "gun molls" are of the same ilk. They are waifs cast loose from orphanages or products of tenement house living neglect. Gangsters are their heroes and they will do anything at their bidding. And for this reason prove of great value.

One of those splay-footed performers of the bounding mat—trampline is the backstage name—was held for five weeks at the Palace this summer and only released because of prior engagements. It's my guess an expert trick bicycle rider could have the same run. There is a new generation for many old acts for which we older audiences grew indifferent.

The bounding mat looks easiest of all acrobatic antics. To the casual eye one merely hits and bounces, yet I am told it requires remarkable equilibristic precision. The slightest misjudging of distance results in severe and often fatal accidents. Records show that for this reason bounding mat performers do not last long. More than a dozen top liners of 20 years ago were catapulted to wheel chairs.

A New York managing editor has been on the lookout for a bright columnist to illuminate a book page. He angled for several and one who submitted a sample column rang the bell with a bang. But it developed one column was all he had. It was also discovered words are full of one-column guys. Which maybe proves a successful columnist is a second story worker.

I rather suspect that one of the reasons Jimmy Moore's mirrored midtown caravansary is always packed with two-fisted eaters is that the menu offers such homely items as: "Cabbages, potatoes and turnips warmed over in pan—50 cents."

And there is still a misty swim in recalling a window card on upper Broadway that read: "Thick white bean soup on Monday. Wet Southern hash on Saturday." But so lacking in sentiment is the vast metropolis that when Will Hogg and I visited it two days later a bankrupt notice was on the door.

The Sealyham, just bathed, flies joyously through the house in a humorous series of dizzy circles. The Boston, 7 years his senior, watches and snaps and growls as he passes by. Just like old folks the world over. Cannot bear seeing youngsters enjoy themselves.

No Cancellation! U. S. Must Protect Public

By Claude G. Bowers

We have a further explanation of the functions of the President's Emergency Unemployment Relief Committee from Owen D. Young, announcing plans for the campaign to be launched soon for money to prevent suffering and starvation this winter.

"There is to be no campaign for a national fund of any character," he says.

Each community will raise its own funds; and of course each community would have to raise its own funds if the President had appointed no committee at all. Each community has been raising its own funds during the last two years. But the President's committee will contribute free advertising for the campaign, free broadcasting for appeals and free propaganda on the screen.

This assistance should count in awakening the people to the necessities of the hour; but the nation as a governmental entity has nothing to do with it. The appeal is for private charity.

* * *

We shall soon know whether private charity will suffice. There are hundreds of thousands of middle class families that previously have contributed to such funds who cannot afford to now. Many of these have lost their income. Many are in distress. And most are husbanding their slender resources against the day of possible need.

Pinchot Says U. S. Treasury Must Feed the Hungry

Many cities, counties and states are financially unable to do their part, and Governor Pinchot says that "the only power strong enough to meet the emergency of the coming winter is the Government of the United States." He does not propose a dole. And, since the Administration has done nothing until winter is upon us, he does not believe enough work can now be found through public building. But he does feel that if necessary, and he thinks it necessary, the Federal Government must go into the treasury to the extent of furnishing food for the hungry.

However that may be, it is most singular that within the last two weeks we have ceased to hear anything from Washington, or much in the press, about the six to seven million breadwinners on the streets; the problem of unemployment has mystically disappeared; the headlines no longer get the headlines, though they have lengthened; and for weeks now we have heard absolutely nothing more about the working out of reforms in the industrial system to prevent the recurrence of the tragedies, the human tragedies, of these days.

But from Washington we are hearing much about the needs of the bankers and the railroads. For the Government has been in the hands of the bankers. The moratorium, called the "Hoover moratorium," was really the bankers' moratorium. Certainly it was the bankers' plan and the Administration did what the bankers said.

The more recent "Hoover Plan" is the bankers' plan, pressed upon the President at the secret meeting with leading New York bankers in the apartment of Mr. Mellon.

Thus the public is more than ever curious as to the coming conference with M. Laval, the French premier, and as to the bankers' plan regarding the further reduction or cancellation of the debts.

Bankers Feathering Own Nests, Colby Declares

Bainbridge Colby, Secretary of State under Wilson, has just spoken to the nation over the radio on the present ballyhoo for extensions of the moratorium and the reduction, or cancellation, of the debts. He has no doubt that the bankers' plan is ultimate, if not early, cancellation. And he suggests a reason.

The bankers here have loaned as much as three billion dollars in Germany alone, not to the German Government, but to private enterprises. These loans were made at good interest for the purpose of making great profits for the banks. The drain on Germany in the paying of the reparations constitutes a threat to these private loans. Mr. Colby clearly sets forth the bankers' point of view:

"These commitments are subsequent in time and subordinate in equity to Germany's reparation obligations. They were made with a full knowledge of the underlying public obligations of Germany, and of the fact that, while the United States disclaimed being a participant in the reparation payments, our Allied debtors looked upon their reparation receipts from Germany as their sole means of meeting their obligations to the United States.

"There is nothing so repugnant to a banker as to find himself in the position of a subordinate lienor, particularly when doubt is cast on the prompt payment of what is owed him."

Ryan's Good Work

He's a Forceful Official

Morgan T. Ryan, the State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, asserts his freedom from fixit politicians and inside manipulators.

"There is no man in the Commonwealth who can tap me on the shoulder and say, 'You've got to go through.'"

It is a refreshing declaration of independence, coming at a time when a large section of the public believes that justice is only for those who can buy it across the counter like a bag of potatoes.

Ryan has done well in an office fraught with difficulties. At least, auto fatalities have ceased their upward trend of death. A spirit of more careful driving seems to have settled itself upon the public mind. The licenses of the reckless are being revoked. And the public have the conviction that favors cannot be bought either through corruption or undue influence.

The safety inspectors are to be put on the roadways seven days a week, through a stagger system. No more complete holidays, from Saturday noon until Monday morning, when auto traffic is at its height and danger at its peak.

Fourteen years of continuous State rule by one political party manifested its weaknesses. Lethargy took the place of aggressiveness in important public posts where aggressiveness was needed. New brooms sweep clean. Sensible changes bring alertness to the public service. Ryan is an example of this. Public sentiment will back him to the limit in his determination to make the highways safe, without fear or favor.
